Middle East Tempers Hot

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel's ruling Labor party announced Monday an election platform promising that this country will continue its defiant attitude toward the Arab states and U.N. decisions on the Middle East conflict.

It pledged never to retreat to the pre-1967 Middle East war boundaries, but to cling to "secure, agreed and recognized borders" worked out in direct peace talks with the Arabs.

It vowed never to give up Arab East Jerusalem, promised to guard the rights of Jewish and Arab communities and preserve holy sites of all faiths. U.N. resolutions have called on Israel to rescind all moves toward annexation of the old city.

A separate clause said Israel would retain "strategic security borders," underlining a political wrangle between Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and other Labor party leaders.

Dayan's program of "strategic security borders" calls for retaining the Golan Heights of Syria, the Gaza Strip of Egypt and a land link from Eilat, south to the strategic Tiran Strait commanding Israel's Red Sea outlet. Dayan also favors an official policy that no foreign army will ever move west of the Jordan River.

But Prime Minister Golda Meir and Foreign Minister Abba Eban believe no such decisions should be taken before peace talks. The wording in the published platform compromised by calling for Dayan's conception and for direct peace talks, but did not specifically say what might be returned to the Arabs.

The Arabs say peace talks are out of the question until Israel withdraws from the occupied lands.

The platform must be ratified by the party, but no roadblocks are expected. If the majority party is re-elected in November, the platform becomes official Israeli policy.

The platform demanded free passage through international waterways and said Israel would do its utmost to aid Palestinian refugees under its administration, "even though responsibility for their plight rests on the Arab states."

The Egyptians reported a seven-hour artillery, tank and mortar duel across the canal during the night and the Israelis reported they suffered three soldiers wounded in firing there Sunday. A Cairo spokesman said Egyptian guns "silenced" Israeli positions at Port Taufiq, Suez and the South Bitter Lakes.

The Israelis said three Israeli soldiers were wounded—one of them seriously—in firing on the southern part of the waterway.

On the Jordan front, a Tel Aviv spokesman said one Israeli soldier was wounded in an exchange of light arms fire across the cease-fire line near Biet Shean Monday morning. The spokesman said the firing started from the Jordanian side and the Israelis replied.

Hanoi Releases Three

HONG KONG (AP) — Three U.S. servicemen held captive by North Vietnam have been freed, Hanoi radio announced Monday, and will start the long journey home in the custody of an American pacifist group.

Rennie Davis, head of the pacifist mission sent to Hanoi to pick up the men, said they will leave Tuesday for Vientiane, Laos, on the first leg of the homeward trip.

Davis identified the trio as Air Force Capt. Wesley Lewis Rumble, 26, of Oroville, Calif., Navy Lt. Robert Franchot Frishman, 29, of Santee, Calif., and Navy

Seaman Douglas Brent Hegdahl of Watertown, S. D.

He said all three were in "excellent condition" and that Frishman had undergone "a successful elbow operation."

"We leave Hanoi Tuesday via ICC International Control Commission plane to Vientiane, Laos," Davis said in a message to Hong Kong.

The Hanoi broadcast said Rumble, a member of the 389th Tactical Co., of the Air Force, was captured April 28, 1968, in North Vietnam's southernmost province of Quang Binh.

It said Frishman was from the aircraft carrier Coral Sea and was captured Oct. 24, 1967, north of Hanoi.

The broadcast identified Hegdahl as a crewman on the cruiser Canberra who was captured at sea in North Vietnam's Fourth Maritime area April 5, 1967. U.S. records said he had fallen or been washed overboard.

The report that the three men were being released was greeted with rejoicing by their families.

"We're overjoyed," said Abner Hegdahl of Clark, S.D., father of Seaman Hegdahl. "We've been waiting for this for so long."

"I'm thrilled," said Mrs. Robert Frishman of Santee, Calif., when told of the report about her husband from Hanoi. "I hope to see him soon after he is released."

"I don't think we really believe it yet," said Mrs. Lyle Rumble of Oroville, Calif., mother of Capt. Rumble. "To feel really at ease, we're waiting for the Air Force to give the official word," she added.

The three are the first Americans released since Aug. 2, 1968, when North Vietnam freed three U.S. pilots. Before the airmen's release, nine American servicemen had been freed by the Viet Cong over three years.

The Pentagon has listed 341 U.S. servicemen as captured or interned by the enemy. Another 987 are carried as missing, but it is believed that most of them are prisoners in North Vietnam—pilots captured when their planes were shot down during the air war.

As in the case of the three airmen, North Vietnam announced that it has released the latest group as a "humanitarian" gesture and in recognition of the American Independence Day.

Davis said his pacifist group met four other war prisoners who were not being released, and added that all appeared to be in excellent condition.

Troop Cut Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon briefed congressional leaders Monday on his round-the-world trip and one of them quoted him as telling them more U.S. troops may be ordered out of Vietnam this month.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Nixon expressed "the evident belief that we'll probably have a further troop replacement and it could come probably before the end of this month."

Later, however, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said "No decision had been made on further troop replacements..." and an announcement will be made on the subject in the latter part of August.

Twenty-two members of Congress from both parties, along with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, attended the two-hour 40-minute session. "He emphasized that there was a new shift" in Asian policy calling for increased self-reliance in Asian defense, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said.

Mansfield added he agreed with the basic premise of the policy announced by Nixon at Guam on July 25 as he began his Asian journey that took him to Thailand, Vietnam, India, Pakistan, and then on to Romania and Britain.

Mansfield said general application of the policy, which the senator called the Guam doctrine, will have to await an end of the Vietnam fighting.

"In areas not involved in the war, it will be the doctrine which will guide our actions in the future," Mansfield said. "Nixon policy, he added, precludes U.S. intervention in cases of internal subversion in Asia."

Mansfield said the policy means the responsibility for Asian defense will be borne by Asians, with the assurance that the United States will consider giving aid to help establish economic stability.

In discussing his two days in Romania, Nixon was quoted as expressing hope for an increased cultural exchange with communist nations.

On troop replacements, Dirksen said the word replacement means that South Vietnamese troops will be taking over from Americans.

Since Nixon ordered a pullout last June 8, 6,000 have left South Vietnam and the remainder of the first 25,000 are scheduled to be withdrawn by the end of this month. This will leave 515,000 U.S. troops in South Vietnam. Dirksen said the White House session gave no indication of how many men would be involved in a new cut back. There had been speculation that it again will involve 25,000 men.

Dirksen said no specific information was disclosed but an indication that information "from private sources might be brought to bear" on the Paris peace talks.

Ziegler said the President gave the congressional leaders the impressions he holds from each country visited. Generally, he said, Nixon emphasized that the United States intends to reject the course in Asia that should be made by Asians.

Ziegler said Nixon made these points:

—The United States intends to keep its commitments in Asia but not expand them.

—The military situation in Vietnam has been substantially improved.

—The United States objective is to end the war in such a way as not to lead to further aggression.

—The President was gratified by the warm Romanian response and believes the trip worthwhile.

—The United States could not give strategic materials to countries supplying equipment to North Vietnam.

—The United States will not supply ground troops to Thailand and this position was accepted by Thai leaders.

Mars Shots Closest Yet

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Mariner 7 sent back the best look yet at one of Mars' "canals," whatever they are, then headed Monday for a sweep past the planet's south polar ice cap.

Flight controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory ordered the 850-pound spacecraft to televise Tuesday morning's 2,000-mile fly-by pictures live, revising plans for a taped replay later.

A spokesman said the change was based on new confidence in the crippled spacecraft which overnight televised details not photographed during the equatorial sweep of its sister ship, Mariner 6, last Thursday.

Mariner 6 now is some two million miles past Mars heading into orbit around the sun, the eventual destiny of Mariner 7.

Mariner 7's 38th approach picture, taken Sunday when it was 716,250 miles from Mars, showed a dark streak 100 miles wide and 750 miles long about halfway between the equator and the South Pole.

Scientists identified it as the so-called Canal Agathadaemon, which has been photographed by ground telescopes but with much less detail. Such dark lines were called canals by early astronomers, who thought they might carry irrigation water to greenish areas once believed to be vegetation. Mariner 6 pictures indicated, however, that no form of vegetation could exist on the desolate and crater-pocked planet.

Picture 38 also was the clearest yet of a large dark splotch, Solus Lacus, known to astronomers as "the eye of Mars."

Mariner 7 was silent for seven hours last Wednesday, when it apparently was hit by a meteorite and its long-range antennae were knocked temporarily off the beam to earth. Some of its radio channels are dead but the television system seemed undamaged.

Plans called for Mariner 7 to take a total of 93 approach pictures and 31 during the fly-by.

Scientists said the live pictures would have a dark bar down the center containing data from scientific instruments on the spacecraft. They said this bar would be eliminated electronically when the pictures are replayed on monitors at the laboratory Tuesday night.

Black Busing Causes Stir

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Many Negro parents here are up in arms over a proposal to bus their children to schools in predominantly white suburbs. Negro leaders vow to resist the one-way desegregation plan.

The Board of Education, complying with orders of U.S. District Court Judge James McMillan, has filed the plan in federal court. A hearing on Negro complaints was set for Tuesday.

The plan calls for closing seven all-Negro schools in the inner city and busing about 4,200 black pupils to outlying schools. Most white parents have voiced no opposition. But a few months ago, when there were reports the plan would bus white pupils to all Negro schools, white parents bombarded the school board with protest petitions.

Charlotte Negroes have responded to the black busing proposal with a protest march, a candle-light vigil near the center of the city and calls for a boycott of white merchants.

The Rev. George J. Leake, a Negro who ran third among six candidates for mayor in the city's nonpartisan primary this year, says if one-way busing is approved the Negroes of Charlotte "will resort to massive resistance and civil disobedience."

Negro parents and leaders have fought for more school desegregation. Courts have ordered it and most whites are resigned to it. But busing has fired the anger of black and white.

The white parents argued in their petitions that they had purchased homes within certain areas so their children could walk to and from school.

A white parent who fought busing of white students said, "We have no desire to fight desegregation. We welcome the Negro students. But, my God, why must our children leave the neighborhoods, the kids with whom they have played for years, with the feeling of belonging to an area."

"We don't oppose desegregation, we support it, but not at the sake of taking our children, yes, my children, to a school across town, whether it is all white or all Negro."

Some Negro parents said in a public statement that it seemed strange that "black children" could adjust to the transition of the school, neighborhood and teachers by submitting to busing while white children were too precious to move."

And, said the Rev. Mr. Leake, "why should the black students forget school tradition, mascots, honor programs, athletic prominence, school pride and self pride with no assurance that they will receive anything in return."

Surtax Goes To Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House sent President Nixon Monday an extension of the income tax surcharge through Dec. 31—ending, but not ending, his concern over his anti-inflation program.

The House voted, 237 to 170, for a compromise measure the Senate finally agreed on after a long wrangle.

It continues the 10 per cent surtax for the rest of this year. The vote sends the measure to the White House for certain, prompt signature.

But still dangling is the rest of Nixon's surtax request—extension at 5 per cent from Jan. 1 through June 30, 1970.

This is wrapped into the mammoth tax reform bill the House is expected to pass Thursday, but which faces a protracted struggle in the Senate. There, the surtax will be only one of many targets for amendments.

The vote Monday showed many Democrats still strongly opposed to the surtax—even for only six months and even though one of the opponents' demands had been met by completion of a reform measure more sweeping than had been expected.

While the shorter extension approved Monday picked up some Democratic support, the division in that party still was heavily adverse. For the bill were 85 Democrats and 152 Republicans; against 144 Democrats and 26 Republicans.

The surtax actually expired at midnight June 30, but payroll withholding at the surtax rate through last Thursday was extended by stopgap legislation.

Then, with compromise in sight, employers were urged to continue on the same basis until Congress would wrap up the legislation.

The senior Republican member of the committee, Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, noted completion of committee action on the reform bill and said there is now "no excuse to hold the surtax as hostage."

But one of the Republicans who voted no, Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa, complained that "instead of fiscal responsibility, there is fiscal quackery."

The tax extended legislation approved Monday actually was a rider which the Senate tacked on to a relatively minor House-passed bill — since the Senate traditionally does not originate tax measures. The bill is to speed up collection of taxes which support the state-federal unemployment insurance system.

Congress plans to work out an extensive revamping of this system later.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is how Illinois representatives voted Monday as the House passed by a 237-170 margin a bill extending the surtax six months:

Democrats for — Annunzio, Kluczynski, Murphy, Ronan, and Rostenkowski.

Republicans for — Anderson, Collier, Derwinski, Erlenborn, Findley, McClellan, Rallsback, Reid and Springer.

Democrats against — Dawson, Gray, Price, Pucinski, Shipley, and Yates.

Republicans against — Michel, Arends, a Republican was recorded for but did not actually vote.

More Reforms Promised In Tax Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drafters of the tax-reform bill say more changes are on the way—especially involving inheritance taxes—even though the changes they already have written are probably the most sweeping ever.

The House Ways and Means Committee, in its report on the 168-page bill, said it is going back over the field of estate and gift taxes and expects to send more legislation to the House by next year.

Additional income tax problems also are due for more analysis and study, the report said.

The question whether capital gains should continue to be tax-free when passed on by inheritance is believed high on the committee's continuing list.

The report does not promise further tax relief—but it does note that its revenue calculations do not take into account the normal increase in revenues from growth of the economy—a figure that could run about $10 billion a year in succeeding years.

The report says that applying the changes made in the bill to current economic figures indicates that in 1970 revenue increases would be $4.1 billion, offset only partially by tax-relief provisions amounting to $1.7 billion. This would maintain fiscal restraint, the report says—a main element in the government's fight against inflation.

By 1979, the drafters estimate, revenue pickups and tax relief will be approximately in balance at about $6.8 billion.

By 1972, the report says, an average family of four with income of $9,500 would be relieved of all tax. At $4,000 the tax reduction would be 50 per cent, at $7,500 10.3 per cent, at $10,000 8.5 per cent, at $15,000 6.6 per cent, at $20,000 3.5 per cent.

Single persons 35 or older, widows and widowers would receive greater proportional reductions.

The committee says it tried to tailor the bill "in such a way that all income classes below $100,000 received a tax reduction of at least 5 per cent of present tax without regard to the expiration of the 10 per cent surcharge."

The report terms the measure "a substantive and comprehensive reform of the income tax laws" and adds "your committee is not aware of any prior tax-reform bill of equal substantive scope."

However, seven of the 25 members of the committee appended individual views criticizing some provisions or the method of handling the bill.

Curb On Hand Guns

The National Rifle Association, to no one's surprise, has promptly taken issue with the recommendation of the presidential violence commission that possession of hand guns be strictly limited as a means of fighting crime. The NRA views this proposal as leading to "gradual strangulation of private hand gun ownership."

The association is quite right: this is the thrust of what the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence is suggesting. The question is whether such a step is justifiable for the sake of making it much more difficult to obtain hand guns, which are far and away the weapons most commonly used in the commission of crime. An affirmative answer to that question is abundantly supported by statistical data in the commission's report.

The problem that confronts the nation is summed up thus by the commission: "The challenge . . . is to find ways to cope with illegitimate uses of guns without at the same time placing undue restrictions on legitimate uses. We believe this is possible if both the advocates and the opponents of gun control legislation will put aside their suspensions and preconceptions, accept the fact of a common danger without exaggerating its dimensions and act for the common good."

From the NRA's standpoint, the phrase "undue restrictions" accurately describes the commission proposal for state licensing—on the basis of federal standards—to limit hand gun ownership to those who can demonstrate reasonable need for such a weapon. An NRA statement extols the hand gun as a means of recreation for millions, comparable to golf clubs and outboard motors. It looks askance at what it considers "a highly dubious experiment to reduce the use of hand guns in crime by drying up the supply owned by law-abiding citizens."

There is some merit in this argument. No one can suppose that criminals will shortly find hand guns impossible to obtain once an ownership-restriction system goes into effect. It is a fair surmise, however, that after a time it would be a lot harder for criminals to get hold of such weapons. That is a goal worth striving for. The commission proposal might turn the trick.

The Shaky Future Of Saigon At Peace

It is not premature, even in view of continued North Vietnamese obstinacy at the Paris peace talks, to think about the postwar future of South Vietnam.

Although it has not stated it in so many official words, the United States is clearly committed to ending its active military involvement in the war, sooner or later, one way or another. Part of this process has been the pressure brought in the past few months against President Nguyen Van Thieu to persuade him to offer accommodation to the Viet Cong and other political elements in a future, freely elected government.

Unfortunately, however, between the Thieu regime on the one extreme and the Communists on the other, there exists a serious vacuum in South Vietnamese politics—and Communists are well-known for their abhorrence of political vacuums. The dismantling of the American military shield may reveal how deep, and dangerous, that vacuum is.

For the Saigon government has effectively silenced or isolated almost all its rivals, including those who are as anti-Communist as they are anti-Thieu.

The most scandalous example is Truong Dinh Dzu, who ran second to Thieu in the presidential election in 1967. He has been in prison for a year, having been sentenced to a five-year term for advocating the very kind of coalition the Thieu government now ostensibly champions.

Speculation Over 1972 Presidential Election

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's rejection of 1972 presidential aspirations could produce a Democratic political scramble—if it sticks.

But two potential participants in such a scramble aren't certain the Kennedy disclaimer is irrevocable.

Kennedy, returning to the Capitol for the first time since a tardily-reported, fatal automobile accident July 18, said repeatedly Thursday he would not run for the White House in 1972 under any circumstances.

In announcing his return, and his intention to run for re-election next year, the Massachusetts senator said if he wins another term, he will serve all six years. That would take him through 1976, past the next presidential race.

He wouldn't speculate about his long range political future. Theodore Sorensen, a longtime intimate and political adviser to the Kennedy family said Thursday night the senator realized the accident "damaged if not destroyed" his prospects for the 1972 presidential nomination.

"He recognizes that the fallout from the tragic automobile accident in which he was involved has been such that his continued availability for the presidency would only add to more hate mail, more conflicting pressures, more speculation as to his motives," Sorensen said, adding:

"He simply would be more comfortable out. And, he also recognizes that his prospects were damaged if not destroyed."

Sorensen was interviewed on the CBS Evening News With Walter Cronkite.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 Democratic vice presidential candidate, said he couldn't even speculate about the short range results of Kennedy's announcement.

"There's nothing irrevocable about anything that's happening in politics these days," said Muskie, who is rated in the front rank of potential contenders for the next presidential nomination—particularly if Kennedy stands aside.

Sen. George S. McGovern, R-S.D., who ran a brief presidential bid a year ago, said Kennedy rates as a national Democratic leader whether or not he runs in 1972.

"I don't think there is any prime candidate for 1972," said McGovern. He listed Muskie, former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma as serious possibilities.

McGovern said he was reserving any judgment about making another presidential bid himself.

Nixon: A Fresh Approach To The Nation's Problems

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is a spate of stories these days saying that the Nixon administration is leaderless, or drifting, or that it is trying to find its soul.

One day President Nixon is said to be paying his debts to the conservatives, the American Medical Association or the South. The next day he is charged with attempting to appease the "liberals."

Men with Nixon for a long time deny these charges. It is rather that Nixon is a different kind of president from what we are used to.

One major key to his actions, these men say, is that he is as much interested in the means by which an action is accomplished as in the goal itself.

Usually, Nixon's decisions have turned out to be neither more liberal nor more conservative than those of Kennedy or Johnson. It is the approach that has been different. It is over the approaches that some of the major debates have developed.

Take the case of the textile manufacturers who at one point hadn't toed the mark in meeting federal rules on equal opportunities for minorities. One group of men argued that the Pentagon should throw the book at these firms. Another group believed the rules should be eased a bit in view of the situation. Nixon, through Assistant Defense Secretary David Packard, did neither.

Instead, Packard went to the top men in the companies involved for long, quiet talks as one businessman to another. Because these men understood that Packard knew business problems and had experience in employing minorities, his words carried respect. Without arm-twisting Packard was able to work out agreements which met the law. The contracts were not canceled. No standards were lowered.

Take the problem of school desegregation. There was a flurry of protest and harsh accusations that Nixon was swinging heavily to the right in fudging the deadline dates by which southern schools must have acceptable integration plans or have their federal funds cut off.

A few days later, Nixon was accused of reacting to please the left when Attorney General John Mitchell began a series of legal moves through the courts to force schools in the South and North to comply with the law.

Writers conveniently forgot the court action could not have been in reaction to the clamor raised by the deadline's delay. The cases must, by their very nature and complexity, have been in preparation for some time.

So far as this reporter has been able to determine, Nixon in this action was not easing or strengthening the move toward integration. He merely believed, quite possibly because of his own legal background, that an approach through the courts was better.

Turn then to Nixon's actions on voting rights. When analyzed without emotion, Nixon did two things. He said, in effect, that if literacy requirements were unfair to the Negro voter in the south, they were equally unfair to the Negro in the North. He also said that it is wrong in principle to require states to clear their new laws (election or other) with the federal government or courts in advance.

In the U.S. system, the custom is that laws are made and then challenged in the courts, not made by the courts.

Whether he owes a debt to the South or not, Nixon believes that legislation aimed at one region of the country, and not applied to all, is bad legislation on its face.

The original laws on school segregation applied to the 17 southern and border states. Some of the major rights-involving laws apply specifically to certain southern states.

Of course, Nixon's approach will not hurt him in the South in 1972 when he comes up for election.

But note that in each case, Nixon's main thrust was to see that the laws apply equally to all parties and all areas and that the laws adhere closely with traditional constitutional practices. He did not attempt to break new ground. This is normally the sort of approach to a problem a court would take. It is highly unusual for a president. This accounts in part for the bewilderment.

Asks No Advice, Just Information

Dear Ann Landers: I read your column every day and have learned a great deal from you. And now will you tell me in which states two women can get married—to each other, I mean. I am not asking if you think it is right, I am just requesting the information.

Also my friend and I want to buy a little home. Where in Chicago should we look? Thank you.—Me and My Gal

Dear You: I know of no state where two members of the same sex can be married.

As for where in Chicago to look for a home—look anywhere you please. One thing is certain, however. It doesn't need to be near a school.

Dear Ann Landers: A few weeks ago a girl wrote to say her mother was burned up because she sat in the car for an hour and a half and talked to her boyfriend. Her mother said it looked bad for the neighbors. You sided with the mother—saying cars were for transportation and girls should entertain their boyfriends in the living room. This is what our living room is like almost any day you pick: My father sits around in torn shorts and no undershirt drinking beer and watching TV—or he is passed out on the couch. My mother is an alcoholic and has a violent temper. She often goes into a screaming spell for no reason whatever. Mom also has a terrible skin rash on her back and on her legs. Some days she smears on medicine from head to foot and doesn't wear any clothes.

I am 16 and wouldn't think of inviting anyone into our living room—girl or boy. Does your advice still hold?—Nancy

Dear Nancy: Circumstances alter cases, and your circumstances make it impossible to entertain guests at home. For a girl in your unfortunate situation I suggest long walks, a bench in a well-lit park, a corner in the library, a coffee-house or a dairy bar.

Dear Ann Landers: A letter appeared in your column from a blind man. His wife was blind also. He made the point that many blind couples have children with normal sight. This is true. However, some forms of blindness are hereditary and I hope you will call this to the attention of your readers. For example, Usher's syndrome, which is responsible for at least

Q. The man who pruned the umbrella shade tree said he was licensed by the state. Does the law require this?

A. With certain exceptions a person must be licensed as a tree expert by the Illinois Department of Registration and Education in order to:

(1) Diagnose the condition of trees and recommend or supervise their treatment;

(2) Attempt to protect trees from damage by insects or disease; or

(3) Feed, fertilize, prune, trim, brace or treat cavities of trees.

These functions may be performed without a license by an employee of a public utility or branch of government, as part of his duties; by a person who holds a college degree in forestry or by a person supervised by a licensed tree expert.

Stops Tormenting Rectal Itch

Exclusive Formula Promptly Stops Itching, Burning and Relieves Pain of Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): The embarrassing itch caused by hemorrhoids is most torturous. But science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids. And all without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind.
The secret is Preparation H. There is no other hemorrhoid formula like it. Preparation H also lubricates, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

CLOTHES CARE TODAY

By RUTH E. HOWARD

Silk and wool, delicate darlings of the weaving trade, are equally delicate as a mixture. Popular as men's suiting fabric and ladies' dresses, they are a temperamental fabric to clean.
Silk/wool mixture is light weight and wrinkle free. The fabric is supple and handsome in texture. Unfortunately, it may not be long wearing. Only a professional should care for these garments. Proper cleaning can lengthen the life of the fabric.
Silk thread will break at points of strain such as underarms or waist. Wool will pill in areas of abrasion and moisture. When this occurs the yarn will slip and look like a permanent stain.
Moisture based prespot solutions cannot be used in cleaning these sensitive fabrics. Avoid brushing or excessive handling. We specialize in cleaning these and other delicate fabrics.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, AUGUST 5—Born today, you have an intellectual and at the same time a highly original approach to life. Even though you possess tremendous capacity for emotional responses. You are a planner and it goes completely against the grain of your nature to take spontaneous, impulsive action. Even in the case of emergencies, where prompt action is essential, you always take some time, even if only a few seconds, to calculate consequences before making a move.

You are an extremely shrewd person when it comes to affairs of the heart. It may seem to others that your good fortune in your relationships with members of the opposite sex—and, later on, in your marriage—is all a matter of luck, but, if the truth were known, it would be realized that it is the great care with which you select your companions, and, ultimately, your spouse, that is responsible for your making happy associations.

A keen sense of justice will remain the basis for most of your activities throughout life. You will take the time and make the effort to find extenuating circumstances before passing judgment on other people's behavior—but you will not hesitate to disapprove of even your closest associates if the facts indicate that you should.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, August 6
LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — You can give a convincing account of your activities to anyone who asks—if you've been wise in the keeping of facts and figures.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — The wise Virgo will forego the opportunity to make business contacts with members of the opposite sex. Wait until tomorrow.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Seek the reason for present difficulties in your own past experience. You may not be as much at fault as you think.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Don't count on your ability to interpret other people's actions today. Let others tell you what it is they're trying to accomplish.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—If you would know success by day's end, begin your work slowly and carefully. Chance of pitfalls is higher than usual.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Young people may well have the answer to family disturbances. Open your ears and your heart to what they have to say at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) —Though things may look unlikely at the present time, keep your eye upon your established goal and continue working. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Interest yourself in things other than professional or business success. Make an effort to help another overcome difficulties.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—There is little to gain by approaching an intellectual problem from an emotional standpoint. Control your feelings.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—An excellent time for getting your point across to those in authority. The wise Taurus will not wait until asked.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Undertake no activities on the spur of the moment. You need time to think things over; almost everything tells on your future.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—If you would keep the confidence others have in you, make an effort to explain present behavior. You may be being misunderstood.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Aug. 5, the 217th day of 1969. There are 148 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1963 the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union signed a treaty outlawing nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in space and under water.

On this date:

In 1858, the first transatlantic cable was completed.

In 1861, the U. S. government levied an income tax for the first time.

In 1884, the cornerstone of the Statue of Liberty was laid at the entrance in New York harbor.

In 1914, Austria-Hungary declared war on Russia.

In 1949, an earthquake in Ecuador killed some 6,000 persons. In 1953, the U. N. Command in Korea began an exchange of prisoners with North Korea and Communist China.

Ten years ago—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said there should be no saber-rattling at a planned summit meeting with President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Five years ago — U. S. planes were hitting North Vietnam after attacks against American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin. One year ago — The Republican party opened its national convention in Miami.

Betty's ABCs of Summer

A is for Antagonizing your children with stories of how you plowed, not swam, all summer. (ALL summer?)
B is for Birds and Butterflies. Whatever happened to them?
C is for Coping and, of course, you can!
D is for DDT, which just might explain the disappearance of all those birds and butterflies.
E (and I'm sorry) is for Exercise. If you like potato puff hips, just forget about it.
F is for Fairy tales, especially those about the fantastic fun found on family picnics.
G is for Grapes, Gnats, Gelatin, Gritty floors and Gum. Gum is for sticking onto hair, chairs, T-shirts and your best rug.
H is for Hoping and you may as well keep doing it.
I is for Ideas—the things children never seem to run out of for irritating parents.
J is for Jolly, as in, "Once our kids are grown, I'll do as I jolly well please."
K is for Kindness, which is more easily bestowed during cool weather when the kids are in school all day.
L is, in all seasons, for Love. Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. (See Cor. 13:4-7.)
M is for Mind, which you're going to lose if those kids don't learn to close the freezer door.
N is for Nowhere—the place you're going to get to with your screaming about slamming doors and cake crumbs on floors.
O is for Organization and I KNOW you're going to have some around the house if you ever get the ironing done.
P is for Privacy. Everybody needs more, especially parents.
Q is for Quiet, something you'd have if you ever got some privacy.
R is for Rapping. That's what we do this summer instead of conversing. (There goes "dialogue.")
S is for Sandbox. It should be for Sand but that's been shoveled out onto the lawn, hasn't it?
T is for Television reruns.
U is for Utter stranger. (What you wish you were to those friends who drop in unexpected floors.)
V is for Vitamins. (If you also try brewer's yeast, liver and wheat germ, something's GOT to happen.)
W is for Wall-to-Wall wet towels and bathing suits.

X is for Xylophone because you know X is ALWAYS for Xylophone.
Y is for Yelling and you don't have to feel the least bit guilty about it.
Z is for Zippy—how you'll feel, once again, when summer, at last, is ended.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Thirty years ago, film audiences were startled to hear Rhett Butler's response to Scarlett O'Hara's query of what would happen to her if he left her.
Clark Gable as Rhett turned to Vivien Leigh and snapped, "Frankly my dear, I don't give a damn."

The line caused a furor in Hollywood because movie czar Will Hays allowed no such language in movies. Producer David O. Selznick argued that the millions who had read "Gone with the Wind" would ridicule the film industry if a watered-down version of the famous line were used. Hays relented, but Selznick nick had to pay a $5,000 fine for violating the Production Code. The Code's new administrator, Gene Dougherty, was asked when audiences see "Gone with the Wind" today, Gable's what the industry's policy is for line causes nary a ripple. The "damn" seems utterly tame by the language of current movies. "There is no quick rule of thumb," he replied. "I try to avoid any hard-and-fast rules, because as soon as I made of the dialogue in the new films, I would probably have some reason to break them."

In the past three years, words that were once specifically banned by the Production Code have become commonplace on the screen.
The past year has brought two four-letter words for toilet functions out of the locker room and into the movie theaters. Next, the common words for formation, perversion and genitalia. Such words are used in underground movies and were heard in the independently made "Ulysses," the text being taken directly from James Joyce's original novel.
Now a film made for release by a major company will feature such words. It is "Medium Cool," a drama based on the Chicago riots during the Democratic National Convention last year. Paramount is releasing the film, which has received an X rating (children under 16 not admitted) by the Industry's

Cooking Is Fun

Maine Blueberry Pancakes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. In THE BRIDE COOKS BRUNCH Make these when a few of the girls come for coffee.

Tomato Juice Anchovy Toast
Maine Blueberry Pancakes

MAINE BLUEBERRY PANCAKES

1 cup unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 large egg
1 cup buttermilk
1 tablespoon butter, melted
1 cup fresh cultivated blueberries

Using a quarter cup batter for each pancake, bake on a greased hot griddle. Batter will be thick so use a small spatula to help it onto griddle, then spread until each pancake is between three and four inches in diameter. Bake until brown on underside, then turn and brown topside. Serve hot with extra butter and maple syrup. Makes about 10 pancakes.

Oswald: "In the early 19th century, British society used to relax at the town of Bath. One way to relax was by playing Whist and the play known as the Bath Coup was originated there. As such, it is probably the oldest advanced play in our modern repertoire."

Jim: "It was a far more successful play at Whist when no dummy was exposed and there weren't many conventions on discarding. Take today's hand. West opens the king of hearts against South's three no-trump contract. South executes an automatic Bath Coup by letting the king hold. But if East has played his three of hearts, it is a cinch that West will abandon the suit and look for greener pastures."

Oswald: "A spade lead will give South three spade tricks instead of two. A diamond lead will cost the defense a trick in that suit, provided South reads the diamond situation correctly. West's best play is a low club and that's just what he did lead."

Jim: "South handled the club situation by playing dummy's jack, then cashing his ace and throwing West back in with the king. Once more, West was in trouble. He got out by leading his four of diamonds. East's king forced South's ace. South went over to dummy with the last club and took the diamond finesse. West made his jack and was back in trouble again."

Oswald: "The queen of spades lead might have fooled South but West led the five-spot. East's jack lost to South's ace and South was able to finesse against the queen of spades to wind up with three spades, one heart, two diamonds, three clubs, game and rubber."

Empty Cable Reel Makes Patio Table

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Dorothy wanted to know what to use for a top on the tree stump she wanted to make into a patio table. I found that one side of a cable reel works perfectly. They come in different sizes and may be painted any color with outside paint. Large flowers in bright colors could be added. Nail kegs work fine as stools around such a table.

SALLY

DEAR READERS — Many wrote that electric and telephone companies have given these empty reels to them.

POLLY

DEAR POLLY—An old door might be used as a top for a tree stump that Dorothy wants to use for a patio table. Attach it by angle or straight braces, then spray paint with a good enamel paint.—MRS. T.F.C.

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Dorothy that a neighbor of ours had a stump which he cut down to table height. Securely nailed to it a circle of outside ply board which was 48 inches in diameter and then painted the whole thing. This attractive table is about six years old, has withstood summer sun and winter snows and is still a sturdy table.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By BILL BUCHANAN

"Uncle Sam" has been joked about, insulted, praised and condemned. Friends and foes picture him as charitable, friendly and lovable, as well as unfriendly, stingy and stern. It is all imaginary of course. Did you ever wonder how it all started?

About 150 years ago, a government meat inspector named Sam Wilson, stamped meat he inspected with the initials U. S. When asked what the initials meant, some one jokingly said, "Uncle Sam." The imaginary character and his nick name was born. Whether it is legend or fact, we have had Uncle Sam ever since.

The pointed nose, tall, thin, bearded gent with his red, white and blue garb was cartooned in a Portland, Maine, newspaper in 1829 for the first time. Cartoonists and artists kept his image alive ever since. Let's hope the old guy stays in sight forever.

Anne Frank Is Remembered

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The bell from the street door tolls — that same bell which once struck terror in the hearts of eight Jews hiding from the Nazis.

But today there are cheery good mornings in several tongues from the sunny street outside. Another group of tourists has arrived to see the Anne Frank house.

The 17th century building at 263 Prinsengracht on a placid Amsterdam canal is where, 25 years ago, the Jew Otto Frank, his family, the Jewish Van Daans and the dentist Dussel, were dragged out to extermination camps after their hiding place had been betrayed.

Only one of the eight persons involved came back from Auschwitz. Otto Frank, now 79, has tried ever since to put into practice the high ideals expressed by his teen-age daughter in the "Diary of Anne Frank."

He works in the name of the Anne Frank Foundation, which has its focal point in the house where his family hid two years in a secret annex.

The place is now an international youth center, bringing people from all nations together for a big conference each summer. The foundation says it stands firmly against those elements in society and within individuals which lead to oppression, tyranny and prejudice.

"We aim," says Otto Frank, "to fulfill Anne's testament, to keep trying and we get better every year."

Otto Frank emigrated from his native Frankfurt-on-Main to Holland in 1933. When the Germans invaded The Netherlands on May 10, 1940, he began to share the fate of Amsterdam's Jews.

He prepared a hiding place for his family in the back annex of his office. The old rambling house on the canal was ideal for the purpose. It stretched back deeply from a narrow frontage, was closely hemmed in by other buildings all around.

The family moved to its secret hideout when Margot, the elder Frank daughter, was served with an order for deportation to Germany. The Van Daans, with their son Peter, and Dussel, also threatened by deportation, were taken into the refuge a little later.

There they all lived in a life of constant hopes and fears until that day, Aug. 4, 1944, when the Germans dragged them out and they knew they were betrayed. On the very day Brussels was liberated by the allies in September, they left in the last conveyance of cattle trucks for the East.

Although Anne was but one of six million Jewish victims of World War II, her fate touched the heartstrings of the world. The diary she left has been printed in every civilized language. And she was only 15 at the end.

It's still a strong emotional experience for many to see the Anne Frank house today.

You walk up those narrow, ladder-like Dutch stairs through the front part of the house, push back the false bookcase which could only be opened from inside, and penetrate the secret annex hiding place.

The same dingy biscuit-colored walls that surrounded the trapped Jewish families for two years are still around. Net curtains still screen the windows, shutting out light from the tiny green oasis of garden in the back. The wartime blackout boards are stacked against the wall.

This is the room of Anne's parents, where family friends later found her diary, written on pages torn from exercise books in schoolgirl hand, scattered across the boarded floor.

On one wall there is a small map torn from a magazine and stuck with pins. Here Otto Frank recorded each day the allied advance into Europe. Next to it pencil marks with dates mark another form of record—the height of his children on each passing birthday in captivity.

Anne's room next door, which she shared with Dussel, is strangely dated. Pinups torn from magazines show just where the clock had stopped for her: Greta Garbo "in her latest film Ninotchka," Deanna Durbin in "First Love," Rudy Vallee with Sonja Henie, the Dutch royal family, Princess Elizabeth of York aged 12—now England's Queen Elizabeth. And, beside the faded faces of old-time movie stars, some gaily colored postcards: a plumed cockatoo, some luscious strawberries on green leaves.

These were what Anne Frank saw day after day, month after month, within those grim, enclosing walls.

Next door again there's the water closet with its rusted tank and cranky plumbing, which meant it could only be used at night when the offices below were closed.

Another ladder-like staircase and it's the Van Daans' room upstairs, where all lived together for safety during daylight hours. A rusting iron stove, a stained kitchen sink, and through a door the tiny room where Peter van Daan slept at the foot of another ladder leading to the food storage loft above.

Here there's a tiny square window—the only one it was safe to open in daylight—where Anne used to spend her happiest hours. From there she could glimpse the nearby Westerkerk and hear the carillon from its tower. From there she could watch the barges slowly passing on the canal. The carillon still peals, the barges still glide by today after 25 years.

The front part of the house has been turned now into a center—a rather crude antiwar display with photographs of the Nazi occupation, the Amsterdam ghetto, the cattle truck convoys leaving for the last act of the drama.

What do German visitors say when they see all this? "Most of them say very little," said a Foundation member acting as a guide. "They just look around and go away. A few of the older ones seem somewhat embarrassed. Once we had a former SS officer who broke down completely and cried. But that only happened once."

The younger ones, like our own Dutch teen-agers, treat it all as a matter of history which, of course, it is for them. They don't feel involved. And, after all, you can't go on living in the past."

Meanwhile the Anne Frank house stands by the canal, its visitors' book crammed with an ever-lengthening list of names from every nation, as a symbol of the past and perhaps a challenge for the future.

For as Anne herself wrote in her diary before the end came: "In spite of everything I still believe that people are really good at heart."

Thomas Wildey founded the first regular Odd Fellows lodge on the North American continent at Baltimore, Md., on April 16, 1819.

The United States regained the world record for payload-carrying July 30, 1939, when Maj. C.V. Haynes and Capt. W.D. Old flew a Boeing B-15 to 8,200 feet with a payload of 15 and one-half tons, at Wright Field, Ohio.

A nationwide study of the use of parking meters attributes up to $12,000 in annual retail sales to a parking space. This breaks down to $38 per space each day for a six-day shopping week, according to C. D. Fayling, manager of parking meters for Rockwell Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

In the heat of summer stamp fairs, the first day site will be collectors have thoughts of the town of Christmas Florida. Unlike previous Christmas is-

Postmaster General Winton themes, this new stamp cap-
M. Blount unveiled the design of tures the ruggedness of New the 6-center which will feature England winters but does show an early American winter scene: a church and a cluster of reproduced from an oil painting houses. In the foreground are a man and woman walking through the gate of a fence near a sleigh drawn by a team of horses.

On a vertical panel to the left is "Christmas" in old English type.

The date of issue will be November 3 when 16 billion stamps—an unusually large printing order—will go on sale. As an early Christmas shopping reminder to collectors who desire first day covers of this stamp, we suggest you send for your cancellations prior to Nov. 3.

The addressed envelopes, together with the remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, should go to the Postmaster, Christmas, Florida 32709. The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Stamp."

At a recent auction of U.S. items by H.R. Harmer, Inc. in New York, the top price for a single stamp was $31,000. The stamp was the famous 24-cent air mail invert. The purchaser was a 34-year-old businessman who has been collecting since the age of 8 and always wanted to own a copy of that stamp. To show how prices have skyrocketed, this same stamp was sold by Harmer's less than 5 years ago for exactly half of

When Bonnie Prince Charles of England was invested as the Prince of Wales, he also made stamp history. A British stamp honoring the occasion depicted a portrait of the young heir to the throne. This is the first time a living male, other than a monarch, appears on a British stamp.

The 14th German Protestant Congress, held in Stuttgart, West Germany, was heralded by a new 30 pfennig stamp, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The motto for the Congress was "Longing For Justice," a theme derived from the Sermon on the Mount.

There were four other stamps in this set which commemorate the Investiture of the Prince of Wales. Also issued was an air motif of concentric circles with appropriate inscriptions on the ceremonies. The set of five is available at your local stamp dealer or stamp department.

Plea for Help: The Harry S. Truman Library is looking for full sheets of some of the Handyman Woes... Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Question—My husband and I have been married for five years. We own an old house that is in fairly good condition but is a bit small. I am in favor of adding a second bathroom and perhaps an extra bedroom since I am expecting my third child in a few months. My husband is against it. He says we will never get back the money we will put into the remodeling and he is in favor of selling this house and of buying another.

Answer—Even if we were foolish enough to take the side of a husband or wife in such a discussion, we'd need answers to about 20 questions before making a decision. Instead, we'll tell you some of the things we know and hope that you can resolve the matter after further talks and, even more important, after some intensive probing.

First, there is the matter of the neighborhood you live in. If the houses sell, let us say, for $15,000, it would be unwise to spend $15,000 for remodeling, because the chances are you would not get $30,000 for your house even if you sold it the day after the remodeling was completed. This would still hold true even if inflation should force up the sales price of the house in the years ahead, since the other would rise proportionately. People simply will not pay $30,000 for a house in a $15,000 area even if that house has many extra features.

But this is by no means the whole story. There are many other things to consider. Are you likely to stay in your present house a long time—10 years or more? If so, you must weigh the many years of comfort and enjoyment you will get from your remodeling against the probability that you won't get back all or even half of the alteration cost when you resell. Also, are you borrowing the money to make the changes? Have you figured out how much you will be paying at today's high interest rates?

As for buying another house, have you looked around to see what you can get for the money you can afford to pay? Here again you have to consider the interest rates, as well as the taxes. What can you get for your own house? You don't have to put it up for sale to find out. Any reputable real estate broker in your neighborhood can give you an idea of what it probably will bring and how long it will take to sell it.

After checking into all these things, you may find that you and your husband are no longer far apart on what to do. You may reach a decision to remodel, but spend less than you originally planned. Or you may begin looking for another house immediately. A knowledge of the economic facts has a neat way of spotlighting reality.

You can get Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.

Police Probe Attempted Theft

Jacksonville city police are investigating an attempted theft by deception which occurred at Carol Jean IGA store about 1:45 a.m. Monday.

A clerk at the food store reported that a man attempted to cash a $134 check using a false name. The clerk said the man was known by a different name in the store.

Card of Thanks

To all who extended comforting sympathy in so many thoughtful ways during our recent bereavement, we wish to express our heartfelt thanks.

The Family of James R. Holt

Our sincere thanks to all who remembered us with prayers, thoughts and acts of kindness during the illness and after the death of our loved one, Mrs. Tillie Schone.

Mr. & Mrs. Wendell Middendorf and Mary Orville McLain
Mrs. Vinton Bourn
Mrs. Clarence Mallicoat

We sincerely thank the doctors, nurses, minister, friends and neighbors for their kindness and expressions of sympathy and also for the cards and flowers for Volney S. Chappell.

The Relatives

Car Misses Curve, Five Unhurt Sunday

Five persons escaped injury in a one-car accident at 8:45 p.m. Sunday on the Old State Road east of Jacksonville.

An eastbound car driven by 22-year-old Ernest L. Rees of Mendenhall, Mississippi, missed a curve, ran off the road into the yard at the John Whalen farm, then went across the highway and into a fence on the south side of the road.

Neither Rees nor four passengers, all teen-agers, were injured. The car, which received moderate damage, was towed to a local garage.

Myers Rites Held Sunday

Funeral services for Mrs. Rebecca Jane Myers were held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Gilliam-Buchanan Funeral Home with Rev. William Sturgess officiating. Mrs. Genevieve Wood was organist and Soloist Alvin Middendorf sang "In The Garden" and "Beyond The Sunset".

Pallbearers were Gerald Tribble, Charles Travis, Marvin Fairfield, James Holt and Leslie Stillwell.

Burial was in Diamond Grove cemetery.

ST. LOUIS POLICE WEAR U.S. FLAGS

BEL RIDGE, Mo. (AP) — Two police departments in St. Louis County are trying to gain respect for law enforcement by wearing emblems of the American flag on their uniforms.

The 15-man Bel Ridge department has been wearing 3-by-2 inch emblems on the right sleeve for two weeks now.

The suburb of Webster Groves has ordered 600 flag patches—enough to last five years.

"I'm proud that we can suggest to the people that we're interested in law and order with justice and everything this country stands for," said Webster Groves Police Chief Fred Zinn.

Chicago Lyric Opera Begins Ticket Sales

By C. G. McDANIEL
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The Lyric Opera of Chicago will begin mail order sale of single tickets for 1969 season performances this week with more than 80 per cent of available seats already sold.

The Lyric opens its 15th anniversary season Sept. 26 with Moussorgsky's "Khovanshchina," set in feudal Russia. This will be the Chicago premiere of this work, composed 83 years ago.

Nine operas will be presented in 44 performances this season, which extends through Dec. 15.

Regular subscribers are given first preference for tickets and bought at a cost of more than $1.1 million — 80 per cent of those available before contributors were given preference for purchase of single seats starting July 21.

But three performances are scheduled for which there are subscription seats available, and three others have only half the seats available for subscription. Single tickets go on sale at the box office Sept. 15.

A Lyric spokesman said the 3,535 seats available for each performance average 95 per cent sellout during each season.

This season will mark the first time the company has presented a performance outside Chicago. The Gramma Fisher Foundation is underwriting a performance of Puccini's "Madam Butterfly" at Ames Iowa.

The foundation was established by Thomas H. Fisher, a Marshalltown, Iowa, manufacturer, in honor of his grandmother. Fisher also has underwritten a new production of Rossini's comic opera "The Barber of Seville."

The season's repertoire includes crowd pleasers as well as operas not often heard in Chicago. "Madam Butterfly," Mozart's "Don Giovanni," Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "The Barber of Seville" are probably the most popular.

Wagner, whose work is not often included by Lyric, will be represented by "The Flying Dutchman," one of his early works. As an added filip, Lyric has engaged Wagner's great-grandson, Wolf Siegfried Wagner, to design the production.

There are no subscription tickets for Moussorgsky's rarely heard "Khovanshchina" for opening night, when benefit ticket prices range from $5 in the top balcony to $40 in the orchestra.

Regular ticket prices are $3.50 to $14. The last two short works, will be given as a double bill. "Cavalleria Rusticana" relating a Sicilian tragedy and standing in contrast to the lively Spanish gypsy tale of "El Amor Brujo."

Apollo 11 Medal

Presidential Art Medals is commemorating man's first lunar landing with a new high relief art medal. This memento has not yet been advertised and we are the first to announce it.

Mr. Harper, vice president of Presidential Art Medals, told me by phone that, although the medal has never been discussed openly, orders have been coming in from all over the world in anticipation of its possible striking.

Ralph Menconi, the "Sculptor of Presidents," designed and executed the models for this medal, the second he has produced honoring an event in the space program. In 1964, Menconi sculptured the model for Project Mercury, now part of the Project Mercury Monument at Cape Kennedy.

The obverse of this medal shows the portraits of Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins centered by an NASA patch. The reverse depicts Armstrong and Aldrin probing the surface of the moon with the national colors implanted in the surface near the module and the earth in the background as it appears at high noon with only the top half showing illumination.

Although this photo was made from the original 30-inch model, the 2 1/2-inch finished piece reflects each tiny detail. Under a magnifier, features of the module are recognizable.

Harper said delivery would start by mid-September and orders will be processed as received until all of the serially numbered pure silver medals are sold.

Silver pieces are priced at $35 each and antiqued bronze pieces at $5 each. Interested readers may address inquiries to Presidential Art Medals, Inc., Englewood, Ohio 45322.

Eisenhower Silver Dollar Massachusetts Rep. Silvio O. Conte is becoming exercised again, this time in a bout with Congress over the proposed Eisenhower silver dollar.

According to the congressman there isn't enough silver left in the Treasury pot to pay the help and demands that the silver dollar proposal introduced by Colorado Sen. Peter Dominick be swept to one side.

I would like to remind Conte that the Coinage Act of 1965 and the Commission on the Coinage (of which he has been a member for years) provided for the minting of a silver dollar after June, 1970. There is sufficient silver for this particular issue, according to the General Services Administration, and I suggest that readers interested in seeing an Eisenhower dollar struck in 90 per cent silver write their congressmen to that effect.

Some gorillas weigh as much as 400 pounds.

For shoes, luggage, leather goods: Brush thoroughly; always do your brushing outside. Wipe the affected surface with a solution of mild vinegar or diluted alcohol which you've tested first on a small corner to make sure it won't change color. Dry thoroughly and replace on shelf.

Walls, ceilings: Wash down with mild household bleach solution or vinegar—also color tested—or scrub with mildew-killing solution made especially for painted surfaces.

Washable fabrics: Brush off dirt, particles. Rinse several times and launder. If stain persists, a solution of one pint household bleach to one gallon water can be used on fadeproof washable garments. Use sodium perborate solution on others and vinegar on man-made fabrics.

Non-washable fabrics: Brush. Take at once to dry cleaner, and tell him what the spots are. Books: Dust thoroughly—again outdoors. Use mildew-killing chemical on covers.

Closets, Drawers: Put mildew-killing chemical bag in closet or drawer for several days. Wash walls and sides with household bleach solution.

Upholstered Furniture and Mattresses: Brush, then sponge with upholstery cleaner or dry cleaner. Set an electric heater in front of a fan to blow dry heat into the article. Leather upholstery may be wiped with soap and water and dried thoroughly.

Strike Back At Mildew

By AP Newsfeatures
What grows into a powdery or down form and thrives in warm temperatures where the humidity is over 70 per cent?

Mildew, of course.

Catching it early is essential to preventing permanent damage to clothing, linens, paint and wood and leather goods.

People who live in air-conditioned houses shouldn't scoff at people who don't, because mildew can plague air-conditioned houses too. It's a good idea to make sure the air in closets circulates well. Some authorities advise homeowners to keep a light burning in their closets or to use a drying agent such as calcium chloride.

It's also advisable to leave the covers off hat boxes, to avoid storing garments in tightly closed bags and to be careful about putting shoes and clothing away when they're not thoroughly dry.

Once mildew hits—and it will—the thing to do is be philosophic about it and realize that it happens in even the best families, and then get to work getting rid of it.

For shoes, luggage, leather goods: Brush thoroughly; always do your brushing outside. Wipe the affected surface with a solution of mild vinegar or diluted alcohol which you've tested first on a small corner to make sure it won't change color. Dry thoroughly and replace on shelf.

Walls, ceilings: Wash down with mild household bleach solution or vinegar—also color tested—or scrub with mildew-killing solution made especially for painted surfaces.

Cerro Gordo Feels War's Tragedy

Jacksonville Journal, Jacksonville, Ill., Aug. 5, 1969 9
Jacksonville Courier, Jacksonville, Ill., Aug. 5, 1969 9

By KAREN T. LOBECK
Of The Decatur Herald

CERRO GORDO, Ill. (AP)—The wheat he helped his father plant was half cut when William Helm died.

William C. Helm was 18 years old when he was killed in Vietnam July 11.

"Will's hair was dark brown," said his mother. "The sun over there has bleached it red now. I was shocked when I saw that red hair."

Mrs. Robert Helm, Will's mother, spoke in a monotone. She was talking the day before his funeral.

Will Helm was another Cerro Gordo statistic.

Cerro Gordo counts its dead with disbelief: The Wiest boy, the Fulk boy, the Baker boy, and now, now Will.

Four from a village of 1,100... "I open the basement door and there's his holster where he hung his pistol," Mrs. Helm said.

Sometimes her voice broke, but she continued talking: "I open the back door and there's the old shed blown all to pieces where Will used to practice. He was an excellent shot."

And Mrs. Helm reads part of a letter Will wrote when he found out he was going to Vietnam.

"I don't like the thought of going. I'm really kind of scared, but somebody has to do it. It's a dirty job, but if everybody let George do it, pretty soon, we'll run out of Georges."

"Wouldn't that be a fine mess? I guess you can just call me 'George,'" Will, Curtis, Michael, Donald, they are Cerro Gordo's dead.

Killed in hamlets and provinces most Cerro Gordo residents can't spell and don't remember.

The village speaks reluctantly of its dead.

Residents say they are shocked; they say little else.

"What else is there to say?" asks one.

What else?

"I sure hope the war ends soon. I sure hope it does," says the mother of the late Donald R. Wiest.

Donald Wiest: Cerro Gordo's first statistic.

Don Wiest who went into the Marines so he could finish college on the GI bill.

Don Wiest, a good student who never went back to school. Age 21. Killed in Vietnam — 1965.

"There were two of them killed real close together, and that really upset the town," said Harold Brintlinger of Brintlinger's Funeral Home in Cerro Gordo.

"Out here, like in every small town, everyone knows everyone. It's just a tragedy for the whole community."

Two Marines killed within months of each other. Two four-year-old statistics now:

Don Wiest and Michael Fulk. Michael Fulk, a stocky, six-foot boy who wanted to go into the Marines. An average boy.

"He didn't care too much to be going to Vietnam, but he felt there was a job to be done," his mother, Mrs. James Fulk says.

Michael Fulk, killed October 1965, two weeks after his 18th birthday.

"There has been a lot of comment that four is an extremely large number for 1,100 people," says Bert Chapman, village clerk.

Firman Heinrichs, village board president, said, "We certainly feel our little community has given her share. There is no question about that."

The old don't say much. Neither do the young; not since Helm's death.

"Some of the guys said they were going into the service," says Melody Roedy, 1969 graduate of Cerro Gordo High School. "Now we just don't mention it around them. Out here we just don't say too much."

But they count the numbers. And the school kids say that since 1962 every other graduating class has lost someone in Vietnam. They notice death's statistics.

Cerro Gordo statistic three: Curtis Baker. Age 21. A Marine killed in Vietnam, March, 1968. A quiet boy.

Troy Ashenfelter of Cerro Gordo, a Vietnam veteran, says: "Sometimes it just doesn't seem possible that from a town this small we could have so many losing their lives over there."

Mr. Keith Nichols, whose son Chuck is leaving Cerro Gordo to return to Vietnam, says: "The Helms live just a few miles out in the country from us, so it's getting pretty close to home."

Cambodia is about the size of the state of Washington.

Woman Operator Of Cattle Oasis

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

Associated Press Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Mrs. Dixie Parten operates a motel.

That's a place where cattle and their drivers stop overnight on their way to some other part of the country.

There may be other women operating cattle rests, but Mrs. Parten hasn't heard of them.

Ordinary motel owners couldn't imagine putting up as many as 3,000 guests a night at no charge and still making a profit.

Mrs. Parten—a 150-pound brunette—operates the Buckaroo Cattle Rest just off Interstate 10, south of Tucson.

The men who drive the cattle say it is one of the most modern operations of its kind in the country.

Trucks, some of them double-deckers, roll in day or night.

They average two drivers and about 100 head of cows apiece.

Often there will be from 200 to 220 head, but these are calves.

The whole works stay overnight for a service charge of $7.50 a night per truck. That includes a bunk house with clean linen and showers for the drivers, and a separate den for each load of cattle.

"We make our profit on the hay—$3 a bale," explains Mrs. Parten.

The Buckaroo has a new loading chute so trucks can load and unload both decks without moving.

When the trucks don't back up to the chutes exactly right, a calf or steer will scamper for freedom.

"Then we'll go out and rope them if we have to. Sure, I can rope."

"This is pretty wide open country. We have a few water holes around. Generally we wait awhile, go out and pick them up at a hole. I've been running the Buckaroo for some years now, and we haven't lost a head of cattle yet."

"These cattle rests are really a health measure for the cattle," she says. "It is important that they get out of the crowded trucks and get some exercise."

Of course, the first thing they do is lie down. But I'd do that too if I'd been standing as long as they have."

"Most of our trucks are going from Texas to California. We seldom get Arizona cattle because they are still fresh when they pass our way."

The Buckaroo can accommodate 20 truck loads, or about 3,000 head of cattle at a time.

Generally the drivers unload, shower, eat, sleep for six or seven hours while the cattle are resting and being fed, load up deckers, roll in day or night, again and resume their trip in about eight hours.

Dixie doesn't pretend to be a veterinarian, but if a calf needs a simple shot, she gives it.

As a matter of fact, she does most things that need doing.

"About five years ago my husband, Hayes, suffered a serious leg injury. I needed a job that would let me have necessary time at home. I've been around cattle all my life and like them. So when this opportunity came along, I took it," she says.

"She does the job all right," says Hayes Parten. "She comes from a long line of Texas cow punchers. Name of Cox down Odessa way."

"We have no big problems," comments Dixie. "Everyone is our friend. The drivers are a well behaved bunch. Sometimes one is a little tired and contrary, but who isn't once in awhile?"

"I'm doing what I like to, or I guess I wouldn't be doing it."

Boyle's Mailbag

By HAI BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One hundred and eighty thousand Americans are hurt yearly in forms of personal violence ranging from private fist fights to public riots.

Doctors are hopeful that the survival rate in heart transplant cases can be increased through the use of anticoagulants which help prevent blood clotting, the first sign that a patient's system is rejecting the inserted heart.

Only about 30 of 132 heart transplant patients have survived "a significant period of time."

Australia has put a bounty on wombats, the small bearlike marsupials native to the continent. Although harmless themselves, the creatures have been butting down farm fences, thus enabling hordes of rabbits to move in and ravage vegetable crops.

Gambling has medical as well as financial perils. Gamblers who stand long hours at crap tables are likely to develop varicose veins. Card players can be afflicted with "blackjack dermatitis," a skin irritation caused by a substance in green felt table coverings.

Is your boss beginning to think of you as a liability because you miss work too often? The average U.S. worker is absent from his job seven days a year.

Quotable notables: "I'll match my flops with anybody's, but I wouldn't have missed them. Flops are a part of life's menu, and I've never been a girl to miss out on any of the courses." — Actress Rosalind Russell.

Who's boss in the house? In increasing numbers it is the lady in the house. The U.S. Census Bureau lists 12 million women as "heads of households."

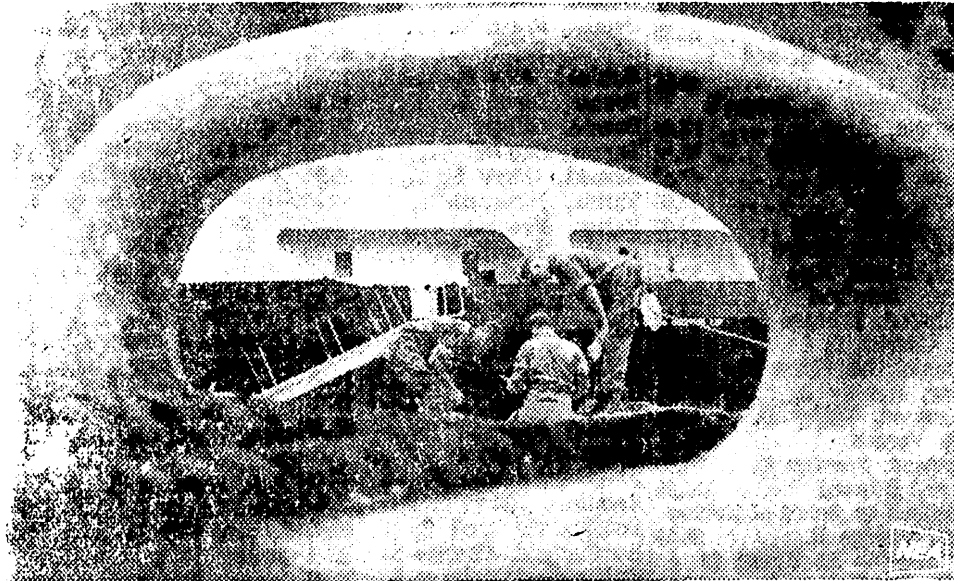

Exit glamor: A girl no longer has to be glamorous to land a good secretarial post, says Elmer L. Winter, president of Manpower, Inc. "Because of the shortage of help today, executives are thankful to get any secretary at all."

No other people in the world wrap up so many things as we do here in America, where packaging has become an art as well as an industry. As a result, each American now has to discard approximately a ton of trash a year.

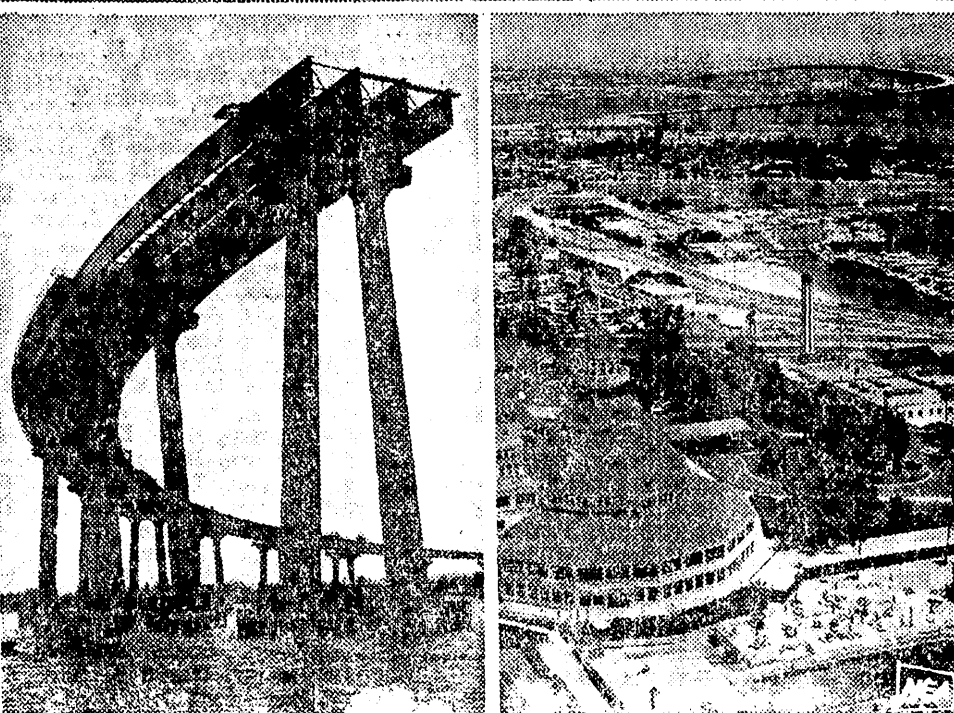

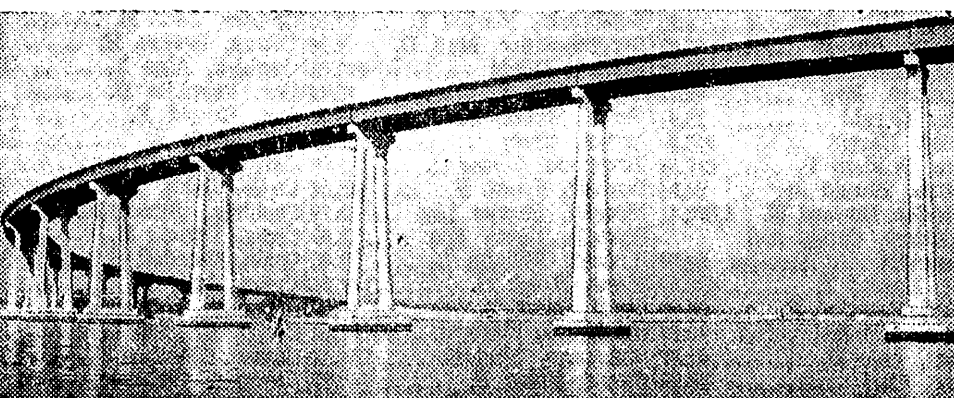

Did you think pipelines carry only oil or gas? An Irish brewery in Dublin now delivers beer through a 20-mile pipeline; in Switzerland, a pipeline ferries several thousand gallons of milk an hour from mountain pastures to villages below.

On wheels: The physical fitness fad has been a big boon to the bicycle market. Some 8.4 bikes are expected to be sold in 1969, up nearly a million from a year ago.

It was Albert Einstein who observed, "The man who regards his own life and that of his fellow creatures as meaningless is not merely unhappy but hardly fit for life."

NEATLY FRAMED, Marines make a last minute check in South Vietnam before sailing for Okinawa as part of President Nixon's troop redeployment.

SPANNING SAN DIEGO BAY, this new $38-million bridge links the California cities of Coronado and San Diego. Reportedly one of the most beautiful bridges in the world, a team of specialists in aesthetic design participated in the planning to make sure every advantage of natural environment was considered. Dramatic shot at bottom left shows curved section in construction last year. Bottom right photo was taken from Coronado side after bridge's completion.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Many Children Outgrow
Learning Lag in Time

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Q—My son is in second grade. His I.Q. is average but he has a very short attention span. The doctor is giving him Ritalin for a neurological lag. What does this mean? Is Ritalin a safe drug to take?

A—Your son probably has a delay in the physiological development of his brain. Many children with this type of learning problem outgrow it when they are between 10 and 12. Meanwhile, Ritalin usually helps them. When taken under medical supervision, the drug is safe.

Q—My daughter, 6, is unable to concentrate. I have heard that there is a drug that will help such children. Is this true? What kind of a doctor should I have see her?

A—Your daughter's problem is similar to that of the boy in the preceding question. The drug is methylphenidate (Ritalin). Your daughter should be seen by a psychiatrically oriented pediatrician or a psychiatrist who treats children.

Q—What causes dyslexia and what treatment is recommended?

A—The child with dyslexia is unable to read or reads with great difficulty. The causes include an environment in which reading is not encouraged, poor teaching methods, impaired hearing or, in many cases, a failure of the brain to develop a one-sided dominance (the child has two left hands). When the condition is recognized before the child is seven, special training by a child psychologist to promote one-sided dominance often produces excellent results.

Q—A psychiatrist says my son, 17, has schizophrenia. He can't concentrate very long. The doctor is giving him Stelazine. How long must he take it? Would shock treatments help him? He needs to work. What kind of work do you think he could do?

A—As long as the drug your son is taking helps him, he should continue to take it. Shock treatment has benefited some persons with this disease. When properly treated, some of these persons can hold an unskilled or semiskilled job, preferably in what is known as a sheltered workshop.

Q—Will tickling a baby's feet make him tongue-tied?

A—No. Tongue-tie is present from birth.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Redlegs Undefeated In Class A Regional

The Jacksonville State Hospital Redlegs assured themselves of a trip to the state tournament with their second straight shutout victory in the Class 'A' Regional at Nichols Park Monday evening.

Monday night the Redlegs tripped up Springfield Quality Furniture 2-0 behind Jack McNeely's three-hitter, after the Jacksonville club blanked Springfield Ski & Boat 6-0 behind Dale Heaton's three-hitter Sunday evening.

Tonight's action will pit Ski and Boat against Quality Furniture at 7:00, with the winner to meet the Redlegs at 8:30. A third game, if necessary, will follow in the double elimination meet. The first two teams will advance to the state tournament in Bloomington starting Aug. 12.

In Monday's game the Redlegs were blanked through the first four innings before breaking loose for two runs without a hit in the fifth. Wayne Smith was hit by a pitch with one away in the frame. Joe Cors sacrificed Smith to second and was safe at first when the Quality Furniture second baseman missed the bag at first.

Fred Curtis then bounced to wild, letting Smith score and Cors move to third. Cors was trapped off third but scored when catcher John Vorhees dropped the ball at the plate.

The veteran McNeely scattered three singles in going the distance. McNeely, in his 30th year of pitching softball in the area, fanned five and did not give up a walk. Opposing hurler Andy Anderson allowed only three singles while fanning six and issuing three free rides.

In the first game Monday Ski & Boat got by Air Guard, also of Springfield, 5-4 with the winning run crossing in the seventh on the sixth of Air Guard's fielding miscues.

Sunday night the Redlegs scored single runs in the first, on Smith's leadoff homer; and second, on a walk to Dan Runkle. Gale Waltrip's bunt single and Heaton's squeeze bunt.

Two more Redleg tallies scored in the fifth when Fred Curtis walked, Gary Spangenberg singled and Jeff Knight dropped a sacrifice bunt. Spangenberg slashed a home run after Curtis singled for two more runs in the sixth.

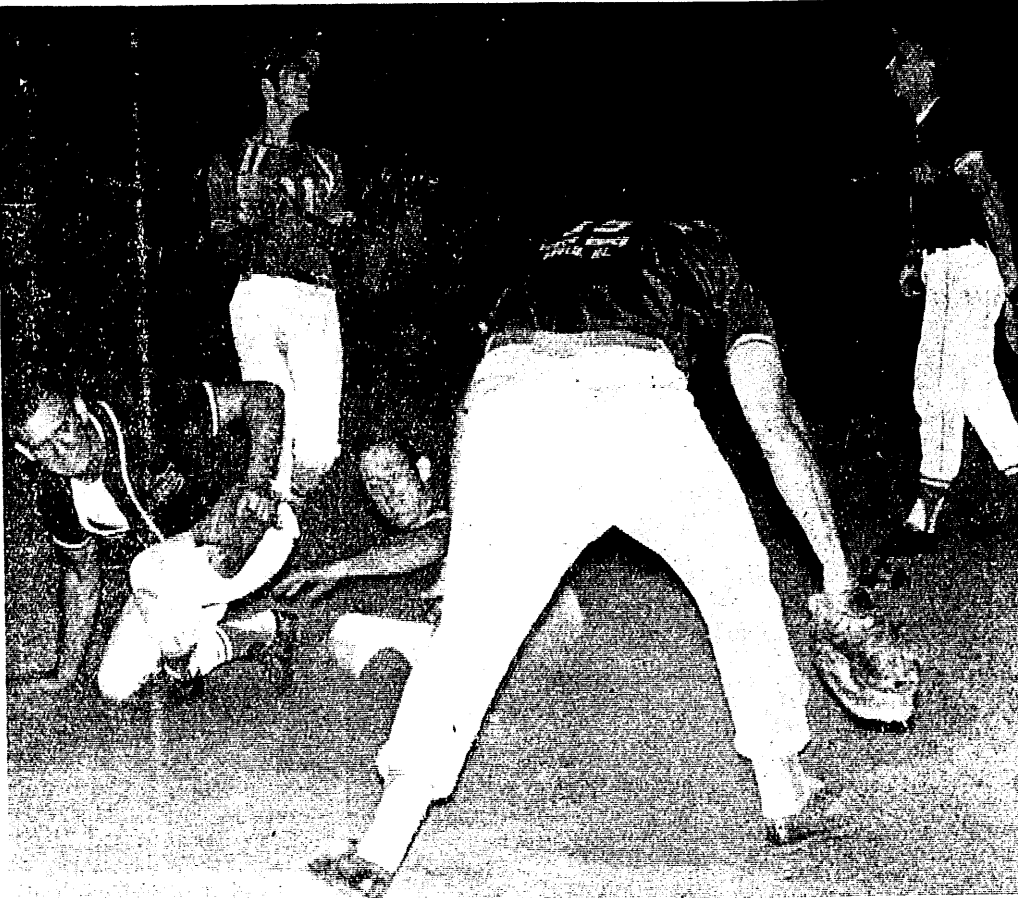

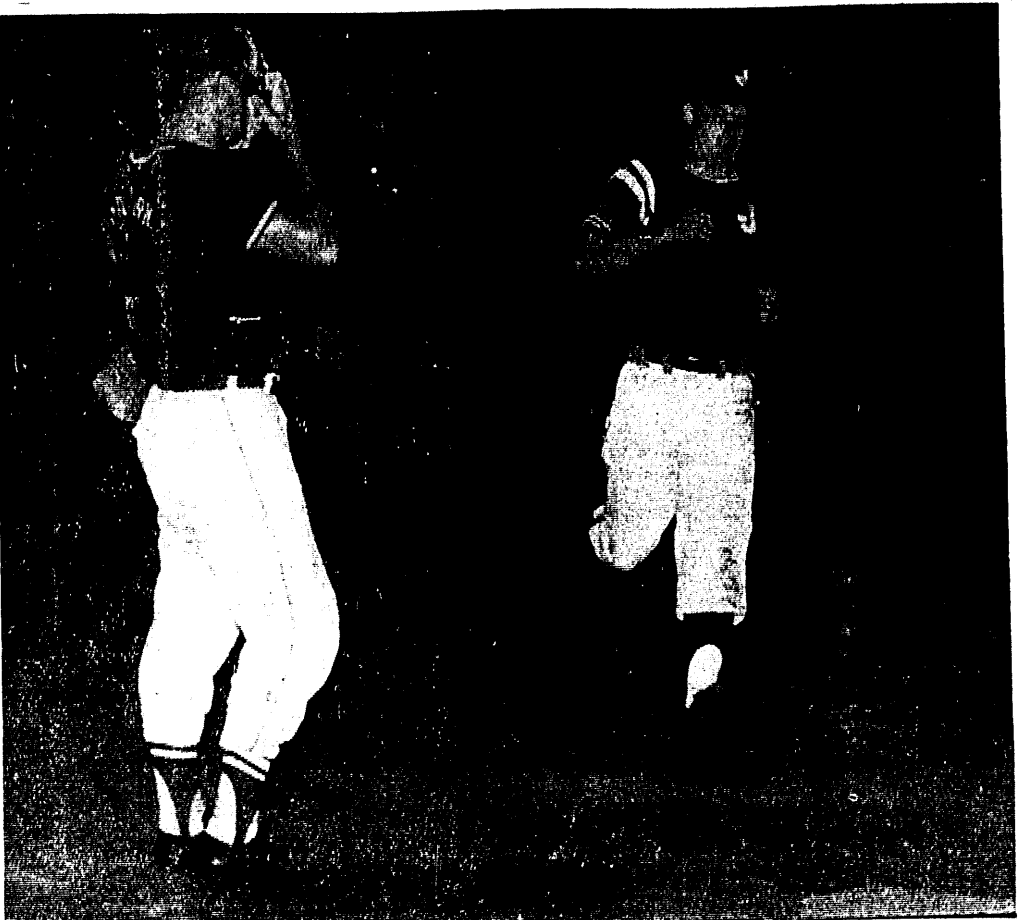

Quality Furniture's Ducky Reed blanked Air Guard 4-0 on only two singles in the first game Sunday evening.

IN BUNCHES: The Jacksonville Redlegs were blanked for four innings before exploding for two in the fifth frame in the Class 'A' Regional game at Nichols Park Monday evening. Top, Wayne Smith crosses easily on a wild throw to break the ice, as catcher John Vorhees watches. In bottom picture Joe Cors (middle on ground) has a bit more trouble but gets in safely as catcher Vorhees drops the ball after getting Cors in a rundown. The two runs stood up as the Redlegs scored a 2-0 shutout and assured themselves of a trip to the state tournament.

Braves 7-1 Loss Fifth Straight

MONTREAL (AP) — Rusty Staub hit a two-run homer and Mack Jones a two-run double behind Jerry Robertson's eight-hit pitching and the Montreal Expos handed the Atlanta Braves their fifth straight loss 7-1 Monday night.

Robertson, 3-9, struck out six and walked one and didn't allow a runner past first base until Orlando Cepeda hit his 300th career homer with two out in the ninth. A walk and a single followed before Robertson retired Bob Tillman.

Staub belted his 18th homer over the right centerfield fence off George Stone, 9-7, in the first inning following a walk to Gary Sutherland, starting the Expos to only their second victory in nine games.

Stone walked Bob Bailey and Coco Laboy in the third and Jones followed with his double.

Bailey's double and a single by Laboy made it 5-0 in the fourth and Robertson singled and scored on Sutherland's double in the sixth. Bobby Wine singled in Jones with the final run in the seventh.

Hundley, Jenkins Lead 9-3 Cubs Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Randy Hundley drove in four runs, Glenn Beckert rapped out five hits and Ferguson Jenkins hurled a four-hitter as the Chicago Cubs crushed Houston 9-3 Monday night and opened up a seven-game lead in the National League Eastern standings.

It was the Cubs' fifth consecutive triumph—second-place New York lost at Cincinnati—but was marred by an injury to slugging third baseman Ron Santo, who was hit on the left hand by a pitch from Tom Griffin in the first inning and left the game. X-rays showed no fracture.

The loss was Houston's second after an eight-game winning streak and dropped the fifth-place Astros three games behind Cincinnati.

Williams drove in a run with a first-inning grounder following a walk to Don Kessinger and Beckert's single. Hundley broke it open with a three-run double in the third.

The Cubs kayoed Griffin, 7-5, in the fourth. Jenkins doubled, Kessinger reached on a fielder's choice and Beckert's single and a sacrifice fly Williams got two runs home and made it 6-0.

Doubles by Kessinger and Beckert accounted for another run in the sixth and the Cubs scored two more in the eighth on Hundley's sacrifice fly and a single by Jim Hickman.

Jenkins, 15-9, fanned 12. He yielded a run in the fifth on Denis Menke's triple and Norm Miller's fly and two in the seventh on Doug Rader's inside-the-park homer.

The Twins 28th victory in 36 games boosted their lead over Oakland in the American League West to three games.

Minnesota took advantage of first-inning wildness on the part of rookie Mike Kilkenny, 1-2, making his second major league start.

Kilkenny walked Cesar Tovar to start the game and Rod Carew's bunt single and a walk to Harmon Killebrew loaded the bases. Tony Oliva's grounder got one run home and Kilkenny struck out Bob Allison for the second out.

But he walked Leo Cardenas, refilling the bases, and Renick promptly doubled inside third and Tishinski singled for two more runs. The Twins added single runs in the fifth when Carew walked, stole second and scored on Killebrew's single, and seventh, on Tovar's single, stolen base and a single by Oliva.

Starter Bob Miller, 4-4, went 7 1-3 innings for the Twins and yielded a run in the third on Don Wert's single, an infield out and Mickey Stanley's double. Minnesota 500 010 100-7 8 1

Javier's Home Run Lets Cards Win 2-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Julian Javier slammed his ninth home run with two out in the ninth inning to snap a tie and give the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 victory over Los Angeles Monday night.

Javier's drive was the only hit off reliever Jim Brewer, 3-5, who worked the last two innings after starter Bill Singer left for a pinch hitter.

Tim McCarver's homer tied the score in the seventh and right fielder Vada Pinson protected the tie by throwing out Maury Wills at the plate in the eighth when he tried to score from second on Manny Mota's single.

Nelson Briles, 11-9, went the route for the Cards with a seven-hitter.

The only run off Briles came in the third when Wills tripled with one out and scored on a forceout grounder by Willie Davis after a walk to Mota.

It was the 21st triumph in 27 games for the Cards and the Dodgers' fifth defeat in their last six starts.

Maloney Blanks New York, 1-0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sore-armed Jim Maloney stopped New York on two hits for 8 2-3 innings as the Cincinnati Reds shaded the Mets 1-0 Monday night on Alex Johnson's sacrifice fly in the third.

Pete Rose, who scored the lone run of the game, helped Maloney with a leaping grab of pinch hitter Art Shamsky's drive against the right field fence in the eighth.

Maloney, 5-2, trying for his first complete game since he no-hit Houston on April 30, was replaced by Wayne Granger after issuing his third walk to Cleon Jones with two out in the ninth. Granger retired Ed Kranepool on one pitch.

The only Met hits were Wayne Garrett's two-out double in the second and a single by Tommie Agee with two away in the sixth.

Santo Injured On Hand By Pitched Ball

HOUSTON (AP) — Ron Santo, slugging third baseman of the Chicago Cubs was forced out of Monday's night's game with the Houston Astros when he was hit on the left hand by a pitch from Tom Griffin in the first inning.

Paul Popovich replaced Santo.

Santo was taken to St. Joseph Hospital for x-rays of the little finger on his left hand.

Baker hit his first major league homer in the fourth inning to start the Orioles' Tom Phoebus toward his fourth loss in 15 decisions.

Harrelson added an insurance run in the seventh with his 21st homer of the year.

Hargan, coming back after arm troubles early in the season, won his fourth game against eight losses. He struck out six, walked two and hit one and allowed only two runners past first base. In the first inning he issued both his walks and with one out in the ninth, Boog Powell doubled.

Park Holds Slim Lead At Midpoint

Defending champion Jim Reynolds and 1967 winner Jim Cisne each held a share of the lead at the halfway point of the Jacksonville City Golf Tournament Monday, while a tight battle for individual and team honors shaped up after Sunday's second round at Nichols Park.

Cisne, who made a belated charge at catching Reynolds over last year's final 18 holes, turned in the tournament's most impressive round to date in Sunday's action, moving from four strokes off the pace into a share of the lead.

Cisne, a student at the University of Arkansas, whipped around the Nichols Park course in three-under par with a 33-30-63. Reynolds, who shares the lead with current Nichols Park Open king Monty Secrist after Saturday's opening 18 holes, fired a one-over 67 Sunday to go with Saturday's even par 66 to stand at 133 with Cisne. Reynolds had a 32-35 Sunday.

The final 36 holes will be played this weekend at the Country Club. In the standings the defending champion Nichols Park squad holds a slim nine-stroke margin, 1.101 to 1.110, which leaves the Club team in good shape with the final 36 holes over its home course.

Right behind the leaders are Secrist, young Barry Bringman and veteran E. P. (Red) Hohmann with 135 totals. Secrist dropped from a 65 Saturday to a 70 Sunday, while Bringman had a 34-34-68 Sunday to back up a 67 Saturday. Hohmann showed a 33-34-67 Sunday after a 68 Saturday.

Russ Mosley of the Park stands three strokes back with a 68-68-136 and the Club's Gary Hutchison holds a 69-69-138 count. Rounding out the top ten are nine-time winner Jim Buckley of the Club with a 70-69-139 and Jim Blesse and Bud Vandiver of the Park and John Brooks of the Club with 140 scores.

After Sunday's round the field was cut to the low 15 and ties from each team, with only the low eight to count on the team scores.

Experts Agree, Older Baseballs Were Livelier

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

When Lefty Gomez stood on the mound with men on base he was certain he held a lively ball. "I could feel the rabbit's heart beat," said the 58-year-old former pitcher.

That was 35 years ago when Lefty won 26 games for the New York Yankees.

Sam McDowell, the strikeout artist with the Cleveland Indians, has better proof than Gomez ever had about a lively ball. He hits home runs one-handed.

"I know the ball is livelier than it was last year," said McDowell right after the All-Star game in Washington. "I can tell when I take batting practice because I've hit home runs one-handed."

"I sure think it is livelier," says Ted Williams who returned to the game this year to manage the Washington Senators after retiring as a player in 1960.

"I believe it is livelier," says Baltimore Oriole third baseman Brooks Robinson. "But you can't tell it the way I've been hitting. You still have to make contact."

Golfers Happy 1 Year Later

NEW YORK (AP) — A year after touring pros broke with the professional golfers association and went into business on their own, all is serene again in big time golf.

The tournament pros are their own bosses, a concession they demand, and the PGA has the satisfaction of providing the umbrella—powerless as it is—over the $6.5 million tour.

"Everybody's happy," said Dan Sikes, the Pensacola, Fla., lawyer and tried chicken king who, as a member of the Players Committee, was one of the most militant revolutionaries in the PGA war.

"You have to give a lot of credit to Joe Dey, Joseph C. Dey, the former U. S. Golf Association executive director who was hired as pro commissioner. He has the respect of all the players as well as the PGA."

"I don't think you'll ever see the friction between the PGA and players again such as we had the last few years. I'm so happy and Gardner Dickinson is so happy that we'd both like to get off the committee now and turn it over to somebody else."

Dickinson was chairman and chief spokesman of the Players Committee which broke with the PGA last fall and set up a rival organization called American Professional Golfers (APG).

The move threatened to alienate club professionals, split sponsors and throw a monkey wrench into both the PGA and the rich professional tour.

The situation was rectified at what became known as the peace of Scottsdale, a meeting of the rival groups in Scottsdale, Ariz., last Dec. 13.

Under the new agreement, the players were given complete control of the tour under a separate section to be known as the Tournament Players Division.

"A few minor problems remain, but these are being dealt with one at a time and none threatens the security of our new setup," said Dey. "The prospect of another revolt by the players is remote."

One of the problems concerns money in the PGA kitty—said to be somewhere in the neighborhood of $100,000—which was taken in before the original split. The PGA says it belongs to the PGA, the players contend it belongs to the players.

"It's nothing to quibble about," Sikes said. "We'll settle it satisfactorily."

Meanwhile, the pros have just finished playing for $250,000 in the Westchester Classic at Harrison, N.Y., won by Frank Beard, and are looking forward to new financial horizons.

Under the machinery of the peace agreement, problems involving the PGA and the players are referred to a 10-man policy committee composed of three business men—J. Paul Austin, George Love and John Murchison; three PGA officials, president Leo Fraser, secretary-treasurer Warren Orlick and William Clarke and four tournament players, currently Dickinson, Sikes, Bill Casper and Jack Nicklaus.

Golf has become big business. The boys run it now in Wall Street style.

Tony Keyes scored 56 goals in his three years of varsity soccer competition at Michigan State.

Article Reports

Joe Followed By FBI Agents

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarter-back Joe Namath of the New York Jets said in a magazine article Monday that he was being followed by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation during last season and had a visit from the FBI at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the week before last January's Super Bowl.

John F. Malone, assistant director in charge of the FBI's New York office, said "there's not one scintilla of truth to any of Namath's statements regarding telephone taps, the FBI following him or investigating him."

In an article written for True Magazine with author Dick Schaap and released Monday, Namath said the Super Bowl in visit had resulted from a threat against his life on the Jets' previous visit to Miami.

Namath said the agent called the visit a routine checkup. "If he shoots you," Namath quoted the agent as saying, "he can't possibly get away."

"That really made me feel a lot better," said Namath. "I'm pretty sure they started keeping me company right after we lost a couple of games to Buffalo and Denver," said Namath. "It was nothing personal, but I had five passes intercepted in each of those games, and the FBI or the CIA or somebody like that got a little curious."

Nothing serious. They just checked my bank deposits. "I don't blame them. I guess I don't really know very much about gambling, but I've been told some people do bet on professional football games. Guys kid me now and then. 'C'mon Joe, you want to make $50,000 this weekend?' and I kid them right back. 'who do I have to kill?' and they just laugh. They're only fooling around, but sometimes the FBI doesn't have any sense of humor."

The article, in the September issue of True, is an excerpt from the forthcoming book "I Can't Wait Until Tomorrow...Cause I Get Better Looking Every Day," written by Namath and Schaap.

Americans Favored In European Meet

AUGSBURG, Germany (AP) — American men and women in the shot-put and javelin track and field stars are favored to win a two-day meet Tuesday and Wednesday nights in Bavarian city. A U.S.-dominated Western Hemisphere squad lost decisively to European teams last week at Stuttgart following failures in field events.

But according to several team members the U. S. is ready to avenge the loss.

Highlight of the meets under the lights at Augsburg's 45,000-capacity Rosenau Stadium will be the decathlon competition between West Germany's world record holder, Kurt Bendlin, and America's Olympic gold medalist, Bill Toomey.

Toomey added that America's role as the meet favorite must be looked at realistically. "The possibility of rain, the pressure of international competition and the difficulties of touring could cancel out America's advantage," he said.

The field coach of the American women's team, Harmon Brown of Milbrae, Calif., predicted a victory because American women compare well with West German women in several field events.

Gale Sayer's Knee Passes First Test

NEW YORK (AP) — Gale Sayers, the most exciting running back in pro football, has passed his first test in a comeback from the knee injury that knocked him out of action last Nov. 10.

Sayers returned to the wars Saturday night in Washington under the most adverse weather conditions possible. A cloud-burst of hurricane proportions swept across R. F. Kennedy Stadium, the players splashed through huge puddles, trailing spray in their wake while the lightning flashed and the thunder cracked.

The kickoff fought its way through the deluge to the Bears' 6 where Sayers was waiting. In an instant, the water-clogged crowd was roaring. Up the field came Sayers, slipping past the Washington defenders and racing all the way to the goal line. Few realized he had been forced out of bounds on the 25, a dazzling 69-yard run.

"I didn't even know I had gone out of bounds," Sayers said later in the Bears' locker room. "The rain washed out the sidelines and I thought I had gone all the way."

Sayers didn't play on offense, confining his action to kick returns. Later in the game he picked up 14 more yards on a kickoff runback after big Dick Butkus, the middle linebacker, fielded the ball and late rolled back to him. He wound up with 83 yards, more than any runner or pass receiver.

"I never had any doubts about my knee," said Sayers. "They wanted to hold me out when the weather got bad but I wanted to play. I know I'm ready. I will start Saturday night in Miami."

Sayers was injured in the San Francisco game last Nov. 10 and underwent surgery the same night. The case came off his knee Dec. 18. In two weeks he had started to work.

Was there ever any doubt about the knee?

"Never, for one moment," he said.

Jim Dooley, the Bears' head coach, agrees with Sayers. He had not planned to use him, except on kickoffs, even if the weather had been perfect last Saturday.

"Gale is 100 per cent," said Dooley. "He is ready to go."

Despite the fact that the Redskins won their first game under Lombardi, 13-7, the big news in Washington Saturday night was that Sayers is on the way back.

Food Poisoning: A Picknicking Peril

By AP Newsfeatures

Food poisoning, electrical shocks and flame flashes from a charcoal grill hardly sound like the ingredients for a perfect picnic. Yet unless certain safety practices are observed, this could be your fate—and it could happen in your own backyard. Food poisoning strikes thousands of picnickers every summer. Frequently the symptoms are not severe with the victim suffering only a mild stomach ache. Other times the unsuspecting picnicker does not get off so easily. Severe abdominal pain, vomiting, diarrhea, chills, and fever set in.

Bacterial food poisoning can be divided into two types, says Sharon Bush, home economist for the National Safety Council. "One is called food infection and the other, food intoxication," Miss Bush reports. "In the first case, a person eats food laden with bacteria. He actually becomes infected with the organism and gets sick. The second type of food poisoning occurs when the bacteria grow in the food and produce a poison. It is this poison that makes a person sick."

Both illnesses are commonly known as food poisoning. But strictly speaking, the first kind is an infection, not a poisoning. There is little difference in the symptoms produced by food infection and food intoxication, although the ailments resulting from food infection are likely to be more severe.

Miss Bush asserts that if food is handled properly, it should not present a hazard to picnickers. Special precautions should be taken in the case of high risk foods—deviled eggs, potato salad, and moist casseroles—moist foods that contain eggs, milk, or meat. These foods are good breeding grounds for the bacteria that cause some types of food poisoning.

Food exposed two or more hours to the dangerous temperature zone between 40 and 140 degrees can be an eating hazard. In addition, Miss Bush says that a person working with food, should "Make sure his hands are clean before starting to prepare the food. And never handle food if you have a sore or cut on your hands, or if you recently have had an upset stomach."

Small appliances and other portable electrical equipment can add greatly to the convenience of outdoor eating. On the other hand, using them outside can be risky business. If possible, any indoor appliance that is to be used outside should be grounded. If this is not feasible, make sure that the area where the appliance is being used is not wet. Try to avoid using appliances outside unless they are specially designed for outdoor use.

Charcoal grills are part of almost every picnic scene. Make sure they sit on level ground and are sturdily designed so they cannot be tipped over easily. Don't use a flammable liquid such as gasoline to start a fire. "And never use the grill inside," Miss Bush cautions. "When charcoal burns, it may give off lethal carbon monoxide gas."

Avoid wearing loose-fitting clothes with long sleeves when you are near a grill, since they could catch fire easily. Use pot-holder gloves when working around the grill. If any pieces of hot charcoal fall on the ground, remove them immediately. Otherwise a child running barefoot could be severely burned.

If the backyard fun continues after dark, make sure that the area is well-lighted. Lighting should illuminate steps, the porch, and the lawn area. If lawn torches are used, they should be placed firmly in the ground away from walkways and picnic activities.

POM-POM, BATON STUDENTS TO BE SEEN IN RECITAL

WHITE HALL. — Miss Janis Chumley will present a recital of pom-pom and baton students at 8 p.m. Friday at the old North Greene gymnasium in White Hall.

Students from White Hall, Roodhouse, Hillview, Patterson, Hardin and Greenfield will receive certificates of accomplishment.

Participating will be Becky Anderson, Denise Anderson, Elise Andras, Mary Ballard, Margaret Blacketter, Lori Castleberry, Sandy Castleberry, Kelly Corbett, Patti Cox, Karen Crabtree, Brenda Douglas, Julie Engel, Pennie Fansler, Kathy Fansler, Shawn Fitzjarrell, Shirley Fitzjarrell, Deanne Hallock, Cheri Harp, Sally Hogan, Sharma Hopkins, Cindy Howard, Sheila Hicks, Reita Hills, Joyce Hutton, Donna Jackson, Mary Langer, LuAnn Malin, Tawny Meek, Mita McCaherty, Roberta Overby, Janne Pinkerton, Stacey Rimbey, Tracy Ruyle, Nancy Shive, Kathy Seymoure, Peggy Seymoure, Cara Steckel, Sharon Story, Cheryl Sullivan, Charlene Sykes, Debbie Williamson, Sherry Wyatt.

Miss Chumley's youthful twirlers participated in the Lions' Homecoming parade, Winchester Burgoon Parade and performed at Lions Park July 4th. They will appear at the Patterson picnic Aug. 14 and in the North Greene Alumni parade and program Aug. 16.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — What are the qualities needed for management success. You name them. At one time or another almost every quality has been attributed to the successful top-level manager.

A brief survey of printed opinions seems to suggest that he has to be determined, sensitive, selfless, liberally educated, that he must have the stamina of a fullback, the style of a Hollywood idol, the patience, understanding and conscience of a clergyman.

Maybe so, but the one factor that always shows up in studies of successful managers is the ability to work long hours. Various studies show that long workweeks are most prevalent among professionals, managers and owners.

Assuming, however, that the hard work is a result rather than a cause of success, the search leads elsewhere. First, the comments of Lawrence Appleby, former president of the American Management Association:

"There are two vast areas of knowledge a manager must master: First, the nature of the business he is managing; second, the principles and techniques required to manage."

Appleby added: "It has been said that 'he who can manage can manage anything.' But to manage anything, Appleby said, a man must understand long-range planning, be able to organize, be able to carry out his plans.

The head of a Chicago executive recruiting firm, writing in International Management magazine, asks the executive aspirant:

"Do you have the ability to see things clearly from the corporate viewpoint, divorced from personal prejudices and needs? Can you pinpoint a problem in your field of responsibility before serious trouble occurs?"

"Do you encourage others to air their opinions and are you responsive to their viewpoints and suggestions? Are you willing to take a chance? Are you flexible, unafraid of change?"

"Can you simplify and cut problems to size. Can you dramatize yourself and your beliefs so as to influence people toward a desired goal. Is your sense of discipline strong, meaningful, fair and immediate..."

If you've answered yes to all these questions then you, not the boss, should be boss. Ironically, most workers would give positive answers to many of the questions, but very few would view their bosses as having such qualities.

The head of a large advertising agency, quoted by the Alexander Hamilton Institute, Inc., suggests that many "hot-eyed eager-beavers" who look like they want to be top executives really don't want anything of the sort.

"What they want are simply the tags and labels and appearances of the office; the outward and visible signs, but not the inward and spiritual tortures."

Warning to his subject, as a good adman should, he continued: "They want the glory—such as it is—but not the responsibility; the keys to the presidential washroom, but not the long, lonely moments of meditation."

FUNNY BUSINESS

By Roger Bollen

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The rally which bounced the stock market onto higher ground last week tried to keep rolling Monday, but after making a small early advance it fell back and the market slid to a loss.

Profit taking was cited in part as blunting the market's advance.

The Dow Jones industrial average—which finished in the plus column in the market's final three sessions last week—was up 2.46 at 10:30 a.m., then began to fade. At the close it was off 4.01 at 822.58.

Oil issues, some of which scored gains last week, turned in a mixed performance.

Lockheed Aircraft, which gained earlier after news of two new contracts, closed off 1/4 at 26 3/4. The company reported it was cutting its dividend to 30 cents from 35 cents.

General Motors, which reported a decline in sales for both the final 10 days of July and the month on a year-to-year basis, was off 1 1/2 at 72 1/4. American Motors was off 1/2 at 8 1/2; Chrysler, up 1/2 at 38 1/4; and Ford, off 1/4 at 42 1/4.

Aircrafts, electronics, and utilities mostly were lower. Chemicals were mixed.

The trading pace slowed to 10.70 million shares, compared with 15.07 million Friday.

Advances once led declines by better than 200 issues, but the advantage was erased in later trading. Of 1,533 issues traded, 756 declined and 581 advanced.

There were 6 new highs for the year and 48 new lows.

Among other market indicators:

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 at 283.7, with industrials off 1.6, rails up .6, and utilities off .2.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,200 common stocks was off 0.27 at 51.35.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost .48 to 92.99.

On the American Stock Exchange, the index dipped 14 cents to $26.06. Of 1,047 issues traded, 541 declined, and 352 advanced.

Volume was 4.28 million shares, compared with 5.64 million Friday.

Asamara Oil, most-active, was off 1 1/2 at 23 1/4. Among other oils, Home Oil Class A, off 2 1/2 at 61 1/4; Consolidated Oil & Gas, off 1 1/2 at 23; and Westates Petroleum, off 1/2 at 12 1/4.

Gladling Corp., in which two blocks total 79,700 shares were traded, was second most-active, off 1 1/2 at 10 1/4.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. Treasury bonds were unchanged to higher.

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR 2 PERSONS THOUGHT DROWNED

FOX LAKE, Ill. (AP) — A search continued today for two persons presumed drowned following a boating accident Saturday night on Fox Lake.

Missing are Patricia Stein, 11, of Berwyn a suburb of Chicago, and Ernest Redwell, 34, of Worcester, Mass.

Injured in the accident were William Gaps of McHenry, John Stein of Berwyn and Carole Moenhouse of Chicago.

Gaps, who was piloting the boat, said they were struck from behind while cruising in foggy conditions. Lars Gossell, 52, of Mt. Prospect, pilot of the second boat, said Gaps' craft had no running light.

The Lake County Underwater Rescue Team began the search for the missing persons Sunday.

DOUBLE EAGLE STAMPS
TUESDAY — HOPPER'S
NOTICE

Morgan County is considering construction of a new road consisting of a twenty-two (22) foot wide crushed stone base, and an A-2 surface, and a new structure over the Little Indian Creek. The project starts near the S.W. Corner, N.W. 1/4, Section 10, T.16 N., R.9 W. of the 3rd P.M., Morgan County, and ends in Prentice, Illinois.

Morgan County's portion is to be constructed as Section 37Q and 37B, F.A.S. Routes No. 611 and 612.

Anyone interested in having a public hearing on this project, please contact the Office of the County Superintendent of Highways, Court House, Jacksonville, Illinois, before August 14, 1969.

DATED: July 28, 1969.
Harry E. Thompson, Chairman
BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS,
MORGAN COUNTY, ILLINOIS.

Annual Chamber Stag Set For August 20th

The 12th annual Stag for the Jacksonville Area Chamber of Commerce is set for Wednesday, August 20, at MacMurray Cabin on Vandalia Road.

Several new features have been added for this year's Stag according to co-chairman Tom Taylor and Oscar Gronseth.

These features should make this event, which annually attracts 500 or more Jacksonville area businessmen and their male employees and guests, the biggest yet.

First, there will be a nine-hole golf tournament at Nichols park starting at 1 p.m. Entry fee is $2 which includes greens fees. Trophies for Low Gross, Low Net and High Gross will be awarded. There will also be several merchandise prizes for long drive, closest to pin and other events.

The evening festivities start at 5 p.m. with a steak fry slated for 6:30 to 8 p.m. There will be several showings of films on the 1969 Master's Golf Tournament and the Indianapolis 500 plus awarding of the trophies and other events.

Tickets for the evening events which include the cost of the steak dinner and refreshments are $3.50. Tickets for the dinner and evening activities are available at the Chamber office and from Contact club members.

Arrangements to participate in the golf tournament should be made with Bill Lynn at Low Net and High Gross will be awarded. There will also be Stag is August 27.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. John Talbert, Beardstown route two, became parents of a son at 10:15 a.m. Saturday at Passavant hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. James Renshaw, 605 1/2 East State street, became parents of a son at 6:05 p.m. Sunday at Passavant hospital.

Dempsey Carson Dies Sunday: Rites Wednesday

Dempsey E. Carson of 313 South Church street died unexpectedly at his home early Sunday afternoon.

He was born in Ashley, son of John and Ida Hall Carson. On July 4, 1920, he married Anna Marie Weimann.

Surviving are his wife and two children, Dempsey E. Carson, Jr., of San Clemente, Calif., and Jeannette, wife of Ed Graubner of Pekin. There are six grandchildren.

Mr. Carson was the last member of a family of four children. He was terminal manager for the Brinker Truck line for many years. The firm is now known as Bellm Truck Line. He served with the infantry in World War One and was a member of WWI Barracks, American Legion Post 279 and VFW Post 100.

The family will meet friends at the Williamson Funeral Home from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the funeral home. Burial will be in Memorial Lawn cemetery.

Cycle Flips. Riders Unhurt

A motorcyclist and his passenger escaped injury on Route 67, four miles south of Jacksonville, at 6:10 p.m. Sunday when his cycle side-swiped an auto.

Twenty-one-year-old Joseph A. Wilkerson, 508 Gladstone, was northbound and his motorcycle was being passed by a car driven by Emma L. Major of Chambersburg. Mrs. Major told state police that the cycle swerved and she struck the handlebars with the fender of her car.

The two-wheeler was upset, but neither Wilkerson nor a passenger, Laura Martin of Springfield, was injured.

Students! Review News Happenings With The Quiz

One aim of the News Quiz is to help students keep up their knowledge of important news happenings during the summer vacation months.

Each week, the Quiz gives them a chance to review the names and events that are making the news headlines. The Quiz is printed today on Page Three. Answers are on Page Four.

The News Quiz is one of the VEC Instructional Materials that are sponsored by The Journal Courier Co. as part of its Living Textbook Program for participating area schools.

New 4-H Queen To Be Chosen At Winchester

By Naomi Lawson
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone 742-3190)

WINCHESTER — Nine area girls, vying for the 1969 title of "Miss Scott County 4-H," will be presented during the evening program at the Fairgrounds Wednesday. The winning candidate will be crowned at the conclusion of the program.

Entertainment will start at 7 p.m. with the 4-H Dress Review, followed by a local talent program under the direction of Mrs. R. R. Funk and Mrs. Sam Peak.

Assisting the program co-chairmen are Rev. Marvin Cheney, Mrs. Neil Cooper, Richard Coultas, Mrs. Jack Lashmet, Mrs. Dan Likes and Vickie Wade.

The new 4-H queen will be crowned by Vickie Wade, "Miss Scott County 4-H" of 1968.

The nine girls competing for the title and the clubs they represent are: Brenda Cody, Winchester Workers; Jo Edinger, Town and Country; Janice Fearneyhough, Livestock Producers and Neighborhood Girls; Joyce Funk, Better N'; All: Debbie Glossop, Teen Toppers; Irma McNece, Teen Toppers and Grease Monkeys; Joyce Propeck, Young Willing Workers; Ella Jean Tribble, Manchester Stitch and Stir; and Rhoda Wisdom, Town and Country.

New Council
The Scott County Agricultural Extension Council met recently at the Extension Office. Virgil Vortman of rural Bluffs was elected chairman and will work with Extension Adviser George Myers in supervising the county program which includes both adult and youth work.

Other officers elected were: Wayne Bruns, rural Winchester, vice-chairman; Dick Coon, Winchester, secretary and Richard Vortman, rural Winchester, treasurer.

Welcomed to the council were Donald Westermeyer, Edward Brown, Dick Coon, Nimrod Funk and Donald Pence, who replace Gary Hurrelbrink, Robert S. Smith, Paul Steckel and William T. Watt. Other council members are Warren Breeding and Elmer Suttles.

Committee chairmen named for the coming year are: 4-H and Youth, Elmer Suttles and Donald Westermeyer; Soil and Crops, Wayne Bruns and Dick Coon; Livestock, Ed Brown and Nimrod Funk; Public Affairs, Warren Breeding, Don Pence and Richard Vortman.

The appointments originate as nominations by the local council and the final appointment is made by Dean Bentley, director of the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Illinois.

Mr. Flynn was a member of the Brooklyn United Methodist church.

The remains were taken to the Williamson Funeral Home, where the family will meet friends 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the funeral home with Rev. Roy Doll officiating. Interment will be in Memorial Lawn cemetery.

John Hancock District Agents On Strike
A strike by 5,500 John Hancock Life Insurance Company district agents has been in progress since July 1 when the agents' contract expired. Five district representatives of the local John Hancock office, located at 1724 S. Main, are on strike.

Negotiations between Hancock and the Insurance Workers International Union, AFL-CIO were resumed recently with Federal Mediator Harold Mills in Washington, D.C.

When bargaining was suspended, the company had offered a weekly package of $17.31 while the union was asking $29.93.

District agency offices of John Hancock remain open. Persons wishing to do so may make premium payments at the office, according to local Hancock spokesmen.

Arenzville Circle Plans Potluck
ARENZVILLE — Mrs. John Crawford was hostess for the July meeting of the Arenzville United Methodist church Night Circle. Vice president Zaida Ferece presided in the absence of the president and opened the meeting with the continued study.

During the business session plans were made for a family night potluck supper Aug. 24. The group will meet at the Beardstown pool park Sunday evening for a 5:30 p.m. supper. Each family is to bring one fried chicken and a covered dish. Beverage will be provided by the committee.

A gift package was sent to William Doerr stationed in Vietnam. Gift packages will be sent to all Triopia area boys serving a hardship tour. Names of servicemen may be submitted to Mrs. John Crawford.

Georgia Dirksen

Allan Smith

Leads In Muni's "Annie"

Allan Smith, a department manager for J. C. Penney's Jacksonville store, and Georgia Dirksen are the leading performers in Irving Berlin's musical comedy "Annie Get Your Gun." The Springfield Municipal Opera's final production of the season opening Aug. 15.

The show will be presented at Muni's Lakeside Theatre Aug. 15, 16 and 17 and on Aug. 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. William Morton is director of the show with John Holzappel as musical director.

The new production of "Annie" finds Smith returning as the leading man Frank Butler in the musical in which he was a member of the chorus when Muni first presented the show in 1953. A tenor who did chorus work while at Springfield High School, Smith was a voice major at Rollins College at Winter Park, Fla., but after two years there he enlisted for four years in the Marine Corps. As a civilian he went to Augustana College at Sioux Falls, S.D., worked as a television announcer and reporter and received a degree in business administration.

Mrs. Dirksen portrays Annie Oakley, the gal who learns "You Can't Get a Man with a Gun." She had leading roles in Muni's "Kiss Me Kate" and "My Fair Lady." Her first Muni performances were in the choruses of "Music Man" and "South Pacific." Besides appearing in the musical "Call Me Madam," she had a leading role in the comedy "Generation," both presented this year by Springfield Theatre Guild.

Her first role in any show was that of Annie the Fairy in "Hans Brinker" while in the eighth grade at Hay-Edwards School. Active with grade school choirs, ensembles and choruses, Mrs. Dirksen sang with the Springfield High School a capella choir and the "Singing Seven."

Reserved seat tickets for "Annie" are available at Roberts Brothers downtown store at 253 E. Washington St. in Springfield. The Muni's Lakeside box office is open on show nights. Reserved seats are $2 each. General admission is $3 for adults and $1 for children under 13.

Miss Hanks, Stoneman On Elm City's Staff
A Jacksonville young woman and White Hall resident have joined the administrative staff at the Elm City Rehabilitation Center, according to announcement by A. John Pearson, president of the Center's board of directors.

Miss Audrey Hanks of this city has been named administrative assistant to the director and Miss Zolinda Stoneman of White Hall, the evaluation coordinator.

Audrey Hanks

In addition to assisting director Betty Teaford, Miss Hanks will assist in planning Center programs, supervise the office staff and develop policies for the office. Staff members at the Center actively participate with the clients in guidance, functional assistance and development of individual programs.

Miss Hanks is a graduate of Brown County High School at Mt. Sterling and of Gem City Business College in Quincy. In 1967-68, she was co-president of the Morgan County Big Brother-Big Sister association and promoted and assisted in further developing and expanding individual contact phase of the program. She has a broad background of secretarial experience and knowledgeable involvement in community social work.

Miss Stoneman is in charge of setting up the evaluation department of the Center, which is a necessity, and which fits into the Center's total program. In addition she also assists with the program.

GARDEN CLUB AND AUDUBON MEMBERS TO VISIT GARDENS
Members of the Morgan County Garden club and the Morgan County Audubon Society have been invited by two local women to visit their respective gardens. They are Mrs. Courtney Crouch Wright, whose garden is in the 1400 block of West State street, and Miss Elizabeth Lambert, 14 Pitner Place. Visitation may be made either Tuesday or Wednesday mornings, Aug. 5 and 6, from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

SPORTS CAR STOPS IN LAKE
A late model sports car went into Lake Mauvaisterre about 4:15 p.m. Sunday but the driver escaped without injury.

Gregg Anderson of Springfield told state police that he was leaving Nichols park when his car ran off the north side of Vandalia Road and into the water.

He escaped through the convertible top. The auto was pulled out by a wrecker with the assistance of the Morgan County Rescue Squad.

OK Squirrel Hunting At Calhoun Refuge
JERSEYVILLE — It was announced Thursday by Richard Vasse, manager of the Batchtown and Calhoun divisions of Mark Twain National Wildlife Refuge, that the two refuge areas in Calhoun and Jersey counties would be open again this year for squirrel hunting.

No special permit is necessary to hunt on refuge lands. Illinois hunting regulations apply to hunting on the refuge domains except that within the refuge nothing may be shot except squirrels.

The refuge season opened Friday, August 1, and will continue until sunset on Wednesday, October 15. Vasse reported that the squirrel population in the refuge areas was apparently as large as one year ago prior to the advent of the July floods. Unless there was a heavy flood loss, Vasse indicated that the hunting should be comparable to that during 1968. Vasse expressed the belief that hunting may be one of the wild life manager's best instruments, and last season's sportsmanlike hunting contributed greatly to the decision to again open the refuge areas for the purpose of keeping the squirrel population at a healthy level so far as numbers are concerned.

Mrs. Puckett's Father Dies
Rev. O. H. Page, father of Mrs. Charles Puckett of 606 South Diamond, died at 10 p.m. Sunday at his home in Bowling Green, Ky.

Surviving in addition to Mrs. Puckett are a son and daughter.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the Kirby Funeral Home in Bowling Green. Burial will be there.

Roy Services Held In Scott
WINCHESTER — Funeral services for Mrs. Jessie Roy were held at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Cunningham Funeral Home with Reverend David Deal officiating.

Mrs. Ralph Young was organist.

Pallbearers were Tanner Northrup, Ralph Young, Ralph Smith, Sidney Smith, Darrell Smith and Roland Wallis.

Burial was in Pine Tree cemetery.

TWO THEFTS REPORTED SUNDAY
The theft of articles from two cars was reported to city police Sunday. Both burglaries apparently occurred early Sunday morning.

Larry Northrup, Rural Route No. 2, Winchester, told city police that a tape player, tapes, and other accessories were stolen from his car while it was parked in the 1100 block of West Lafayette.

The theft of a maternity dress was reported from the James Arnold station wagon while it was parked at 312 West Beecher.

Council Confirms 3rd Ward Alderman, Other Appointments

Members of the Jacksonville City Council Monday night confirmed Mayor Dan Lahey's choice for alderman in the third ward to fill an unexpired term.

Larry Evans of 429 South East Street, employed in the traffic department of Mobil Chemical Co. since last September and a native of Jacksonville, was the appointment and he will be sworn-in on Aug. 18.

Evans is active in the Jacksonville Jaycees and served as chairman of the Miss Jacksonville Pageant. He was also active in Mayor Lahey's campaign for office.

Evans will take the seat vacated by the resignation of Don Dellert and will serve out the nearly two remaining years.

When the next council convenes, the city governing body will be composed of 14 aldermen, eleven elected as Republicans, two elected as Democrats and Evans, who is considered a Democrat.

Mayor Lahey also proposed the name of John Crowder for street superintendent to succeed Paul Kroush who resigned to accept state employment. Crowder received unanimous consent of the council.

Fourth Ward Alderman Wilbur G. DeFrates indicated that he would be opposed to issuance of additional liquor licenses, especially to grocery stores. DeFrates said he felt sufficient opportunity to purchase alcoholic beverages already existed from licensees who are primarily in the liquor business.

DeFrates said he would rather see grocery stores "remain as grocery stores." His comments were prompted by the petitions of two grocery stores for liquor permits at the last council meeting. Mayor Lahey, liquor control commissioner for the city, made no comment concerning the applications.

The council authorized use of Central Park for the third annual Ambucs Auction to benefit Parkway School on Sept. 12. The approval was over the negative vote of Alderman Charles Quinn who stated that he was against using the park for anything that might tend to harm the grass or trees.

Quinn said he was not opposed to the use of the proceeds received by the Ambucs.

Bids received last June for sub-station work in the electric department were rejected and will be re-advertised for Sept. 8.

The council approved the George S. Grimmer Co. of Springfield to handle installation of ceramic tile in the new sewer plant as a sub-contractor.

Several investments were approved by council vote plus transfer of city funds from one account to another.

The council is now on summer schedule (July and August) and the next regularly-scheduled meeting will be August 18. The council meets on the first and third Mondays of the month while on summer schedule.

Roy Norris Of White Hall Dies Monday
WHITE HALL — Roy Victor Norris, 83, of White Hall died at 7:15 a.m. Monday at the Hilltop Nursing Home here.

He was born June 30, 1886, in Barrow, son of Henry and Amanda Edwards Norris. His wife, Dessie Norris, died in 1950.

Mr. Norris was a member of the White Hall Baptist church, a veteran of World War One and a member of the White Hall American Legion Post. Before retirement he was employed by the Runkel Pottery Company of White Hall.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Percy Lipes of Monmouth and Mrs. Carrie Jones of North Hollywood, Calif., and a brother, Dr. Russell S. Norris of St. Louis, Mo.

Two sisters and two brothers preceded him in death.

Friends may call at the Dawdy-Wolfe Funeral Home after 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the White Hall Baptist church. Burial will be in White Hall cemetery.

Conduct Rites For Ora Davis
WINCHESTER — Funeral services for Ora Davis were held at 3 p.m. Monday at the Florence Methodist church with Rev. Joe Maynard officiating.

Mrs. Hugh Wade, pianist, also sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Pallbearers were Archie Davis, Don Davis, Robert Slagle, Ronald Slagle, Stan Spotts and Leland Hardwick.

Claire Slagle, Joyce Davis, Shirley Collum, Jeanne Spotts and Fern Fletcher assisted with the flowers.

Burial was in Blue River cemetery. The Cunningham Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.
